President Acts Against Economic Decline . . .

KENNEDY ORDERS 3 REMEDIES

Military Dependents Restriction Repealed

FHA Mortgage Interest Rates Being Eased

Washington (AP) — Continuing to paint a dark picture of America's fortunes at home and abroad, President Kennedy Wedneday announced 3 immediate steps to combat the economic recession.

The President also told his news conference he had repealed former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's controversial order to limit the number of dependents living overseas with servicemen.

To spur the economy, Kenney listed these steps:

1. The payment of G. I. life insurance dividends this winter, ahead of schedule. This would pump more purchasing power into the economy.

2. The lowering of maximum interest rates on FHA-insured mortgages. This would boost home building and home buying.

3. The start of an experimental food stamp plan. This would help feed the hungry in chronically depressed areas in West Virginia, Pennsylvania and other states.

More Steps Promised

Kennedy said more steps would follow. In fact, the President said:

"The first matter which we will address to the Congress will be the question of emergency payments to those unemployed who exhausted their benefits."

That is to be covered in his economic message to Congress Thursday.

But the President ruled out one further step that had been recommended by one of his task forces — a temporary tax cut.

"Mr. President, do you consider the current business slump serious enough to justify a tax cut?" a newsman asked.

"I do not know at this time," Kennedy replied.

He added, however, that "we are going to make another judgment on the state of the economy in two to 3 months, and will then decide what action can be usefully taken."

Perils Faced

To question after question, the President responded with replies echoing the central theme of his State of the Union address — that the country faces trials and perils.

"The tide has not been running with us," he said in response to one question. ". . . There are hazards which lurk around us."

"The news would be worse before it gets better," he said in another reply.

But the picture portrayed by the President at his news conference was bright at least for thousands of servicemen and their dependents.

President Eisenhower's Nov. 17 order would have limited dependents overseas to 200,000, and 287,000 others would have been sent home.

". . . I'm happy to announce," Kennedy said at the opening of the conference, "that the restrictions recently imposed on travel abroad of dependents of service personnel will be lifted as soon as the necessary detailed arrangements can be made in the Defense Department."

Secretary (of Defense Robert S.) McNamara, the President went on, "has been able to work out arrangements for equivalent savings in personnel costs so that this change does not imply any weakening of our determination to protect the value of the dollar."

Eisenhower had issued the order as one method to stop part of the flow of American gold overseas.

Look, Everybody! No Shadow!

If you can put any stock in Mr. Groundhog's solemn prediction, winter is going to be mercifully shorter and much milder than last year's—barring complications around state basketball tournament time. The furry rodent above, Marmota Monax (the groundhog's biological monicker), won't have a chance to see his shadow with all the clouds overhead. (Star Photo)

Mobile Missile Said A Success

Solid-Fuel Minuteman Launch Better Than Expectations

EDITOR'S NOTE: Star Staff Writer Del Harding was at Cape Canaveral for the Minuteman launching. Here is his report.

By Del Harding

Cape Canaveral, Fla.—This nation's first mobile Intercontinental Ballistic Missile roared into the blue Florida sky here Wednesday and the Air Force announced that the test succeeded beyond its expectations.

The 58-foot Minuteman missile is this country's first solid-fuel propelled ICBM, and when in operation it will give the U.S. a truly push-button nuclear weapon.

The 15,000 mile per hour missile was aimed at a target area about 4,200 miles down the Atlantic missile test range.

About 20 minutes after the glistening white projectile flashed skyward, it had reached its target.

Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Thomas D. White termed the test "one of the most significant steps this nation has ever taken towards gaining ICBM supremacy in the critical years just ahead."

Strategic Air Command Chief Gen. Thomas Power said the test was a dramatic demonstration of the success of the Minuteman development program.

Solid Fuels Stressed

Missilemen believe the space ships of tomorrow will be powered by solid fuels such as the Minuteman uses rather than a liquid fuel used on the Atlas and Titan ICBMs.

Although Wednesday's test was designed primarily to try out the Minuteman's first stage ignition and lift off, all 3 stages fired successfully.

Missilemen considered the successful 3-stage firing a welcome and unexpected bonus.

Minor technical difficulties had caused postponement of the originally scheduled test Monday, only 4 seconds before blast-off time.

The test marked the first time an attempt has ever been made to launch an entire missile on the initial test.

To Be Used Here

Nebraskans have a stake in the Minuteman's future.

By 1963 specially designed railroad trains carrying 3 to 5 Minuteman missiles each will be roving across the Cornhusker state and the nation. Others will be parked on sidings throughout the country with their nuclear warheads aimed at predetermined targets 6,300 miles away.

The Air Force, which calls the Minuteman its "pride and joy", hopes by 1962 to have other Minuteman missiles placed throughout the U.S. in underground concrete and steel silos. These silos will be left unattended—unlike manned Atlas and Titan silos—and will be under push-button control.

The first such Minuteman silos will be built near Great Falls, Mont.; Rapid City, S.D. and probably Portsmouth, N. Hamp.

No Minuteman silos are now planned for Nebraska—but the missile trains will ply across the state and they and the silos will be under the command of the Strategic Air Command's Omaha headquarters.

The Air Force believes a combination of hardened sites and missile trains will make the Minuteman virtually immune from enemy attack.

Hardened sites can only be knocked out by a direct nuclear hit while the mobile trains will present an almost insurmountable targeting problem for a potential enemy.

Santa Maria's Captives Near Point Of Rebellion

Recife, Brazil (AP) — The Santa Maria rebels and Brazilian officials reached an impasse Wednesday night on negotiations to free the Portuguese liner's shanghaied passengers.

Some of the nearly 600 passengers — now cast tentatively in the role of hostages—were reported at the point of unarmed rebellion against their captors as the ship lay at anchor at Brazil's 3-mile limit outside the harbor.

The captive ship's Portuguese crew, working prisoners of the Portuguese rebels commanding the ship, also was reported restive.

(The Columbia Broadcasting System reported from its correspondent in Recife that a band of seamen aboard the Santa Maria managed to arm themselves and were demanding to be put ashore).

Among some passengers, the stalemate in negotiations was reported to have raised anxieties to the point of panic.

All were forced to spend yet another night aboard ship —this time within sight of land.

Conditions

The rebels' leader, Portuguese nationalist Capt. Henrique Galvao, laid down 4 conditions to be met before he would agree to release any of the passengers:

The ship remain in his possession.

The ship be supplied with water, fuel, and food.

Troops under his command who are now occupying the ship not be removed.

Minor repairs be authorized.

Desperation

A source in close touch with shipboard developments said some passengers are near desperation and are being held in check by Galvao's armed followers.

"The situation is extremely bad," he source said. He said food was heavily rationed and water was running extremely short. A baby was born aboard ship a few days ago.

Cmdr. Helio Leite, captain of the Port of Recife, confirmed the reports of unrest aboard the commandeered ship.

He said several women passengers are becoming hysterical, frequently screaming at their captors: "For the love of God take us out of here." Leite said he understands fresh water will be gone Thursday.

A Brazilian Navy spokesman said the talks snagged on whether the passengers will be disembarked in port or at sea and whether Galvao will be alowed by Brazil to set sail again.

Leite said Brazilian authorities are willing to let the U.S. Navy put passengers aboard U.S. destroyers inside or outside Brazilian territorial waters. He also quoted Galvao as saying all the original crew of the Santa Maria could leave ship if they wanted to, presumably when a settlement is reached.

Solution

Leite said the Brazilian government had found an emergency solution to the thorny problems holding up settlement. He did not say what the solution was.

The Colonial Navigation Company, owners of the Santa Maria, asked a Brazil court to order the ship returned. The court said it agreed in principle and gave Galvao 10 days to contest the claim.

Negotiations are scheduled to resume Thursday but Galvao's terms were described as difficult for the Brazilian government to meet.

Boy Critical After Mishap On Holdrege

Seven year-old Paul Douglas Parra, of 2253 Orchard, was listed in critical condition at a Lincoln hospital after being involved in a car-pedestrian accident at 21st and Holdrege.

According to Police Lt. Reynold McMeen, the boy suffered head injuries when a car west-bound on Holdrege, driven by Virgil L. Layman, 43, of 3101 No. 35, came in contact with Parra as he stepped off the north curb.

McMeen said the boy was on his way home from school.

MAIN TOPICS

Washington (AP) — Here are principal topics covered at President Kennedy's news conference and what he said in brief about them:

Military dependents—Announced the lifting as soon as arrangements can be made of restrictions on families joining service personnel abroad. Said savings can be made more satisfactorily elsewhere.

Housing credit—"In order to lower the cost of housing credit and stimulate that sector of the economy I have directed the Federal Housing Administration to reduce the maximum permissible interest on FHA-insured loans from 5¾ to 5½%."

Food stamps—Announced 5 pilot projects for distributing food stamps will be set up in major unemployment areas. One will be in West Virginia, one in Pennsylvania, one in southern Illinois and a fourth in eastern Kentucky, with the fifth site yet to be determined.

GI insurance—Said the Veterans Administraton has been instructed to speed up the payment of more than $250 million in national insurance dividends due this year. "We are going to try to pay it out this winter in order to assist the economy at a critical time."

Tax Cut?—Asked if he considered the current business slump serious enough to justify a tax cut, Kennedy said: "I do not at this time."

Khrushchev meeting?—Asked about United Nations Ambassador Adlai Stevenson's statement that he guessed Kennedy would be happy to meet with Premier Khrushchev if the Soviet leader came to this country for the U.N. meeting, the President said he had no idea whether Khrushchev is coming or not. ". . . It would be more appropriate to wait until we have some idea whether he is going to come or not."

Civil Rights—"We have been considering what steps could be taken in the field of expanding civil rights by executive action." Hopes to have a statement soon when study is completed.

Inflation—"In all of the programs that we will put forward, we will pay due care to the problem of preventing any stimulation of the economy resulting in an excessive increase in the cost of living."

Defense—"The situation grows more serious . . . We have to consider whether . . . the strength we now have, not only our nuclear deterrent, but also our capacity for limited war, is sufficent."

Groundhog May Portend Early Spring

. . . Snow Covers State

Age-old legends of Groundhog Day are expected to combine with modern meteorology Thursday.

If the fur-clad rodent doesn't see his shadow — and the weatherman isn't giving him much of a chance for that—he'll bear glad tidings of a short winter and early spring.

Rubbing his rabbit's foot and taking a good long look at his maps, gauges, dials and instruments, the friendly forecaster said Nebraskans can look for considerable cloudiness Thursday over most of the state with a few snow flurries in the extreme northwest and west.

Temperatures will range from highs of near 15 northeast to the upper 30s southwest.

Snow ranging from a trace to better than an inch covered most of Nebraska from Valentine on the north-central border all the way down through southeast Nebraska.

Lincoln recorded an inch or better of snow late Wednesday and early Thursday. Norfolk reported an inch and a half.

Some highways were reported snow spotted. U.S. 30 out of Grand Island was spotted but "not dangerous."

Wednesday's highs in the eastern two-thirds of the state hovered just above the freezing mark and rose to the mid-40s in the southwest and Panhandle. The state high was 46 at Imperial.

Allard E. Folsom Dies; Junior High Principal

. . . Headed Irving Staff Since School Founded

Allard E. Folsom of 2064 So. 16th, principal of Irving Junior High School since its founding in 1927, died Wednesday at his home. He was 62.

Dr. Steven N. Watkins, superintendent of Lincoln Public Schools, said: "We've lost a very fine man and leader in the field of education. We feel fortunate to have had his leadership over the years."

Mr. Folsom was born Sept. 17, 1898, at Denison, Ia., and graduated from Lincoln High School in 1917.

In 1921, he was graduated from the University of Nebraska with a B.A. degree and in 1924 he took his M.A. degree from Columbia University.

Active In Church

An elder of First Presbyterian Church for many years, Mr. Folsom served on the church's session many times and was instrumental in starting the church library, to which he contributed many books.

Head zoology assistant at NU and Lincoln High science teacher from 1921 to 1924, he served as principal of Everett Junior High School the next 3 years.

During World War I, he served in the ROTC infantry camp at the University.

Held Many Offices

Mr. Folsom was past president, vice president and treasurer of the Lincoln Teachers Assn., past president of the Lincoln School Forum, and a past District 1 president of the Nebraska State Teachers Assn.

He was a member of 81 Club, Kiwanis Club, P-TA, Nebraska State Education Assn., YMCA, Nebraska Schoolmasters Club, and National Assn. of Secondary Principals.

He is survived by his wife, Avis V.; son, Jerry R., a geologist in Bengasi, Libya, and a brother, Donald of Orono, Me.

AF Reports Reduction In Air Fatalities

Washington (UPI)—The Air Force reported Wednesday that it had only 110 fatal accidents during 1960, compared with 184 the previous year.

The total of fatalities involved was reduced from 375 in 1959 to 274 last year.

The reduction was achieved despite the pre-Christmas crash of an Air Force transport which killed 50 persons including 30 civilians in a crowded downttown section of Munich, Germany.

The Air Force said there were 425 major accidents in 1960 compared to 672 in 1959. This was a 30% reduction. Due to the higher value of planes flown in 1960, the reduction in property loss was only 19%.

The 1960 figures established an all time low of only 5.7 major aircraft accidents per 100,000 flying hours. That compared with 8.2 accidents per 100,000 hours in 1959, and with 36.5 accidents per 100,000 hours in 1950.

New Question Mark Apparently Rises Over Air Base's Future, Civil Runway

By Virgil Falloon

A new question mark apparently looms over the future of the Lincoln Air Force Base and the city's proposed civil-use runway.

Lincoln officials and leaders were tight-lipped Wednesday regarding a Tuesday meeting with Gov. Frank Morrison.

Gov. Morrison said Lincoln officials requested the meeting "to solicit the aid of the governor's office in helping to keep the Lincoln Air Force Base and its future utilization as a defense installation."

Morrison said he left the meeting after 10 or 15 minutes because of a pressing appoinment elsewhere, but the Lincoln Group continued discussion with State Aeronautics Director Jack Obbink.

Attending the meeting were Lincoln Airport Authority members, Mayor Pat Boyles and City Council members, and Chamber of Commerce officials.

One area of discussion, The Star learned, was what effect the city's application for a second-runway might have on an Air Force decision concerning future utilization of the Strategic Air Command base.

Speed Abandonment

One or more sources at the meeting hinted the runway proposal would adversely affect and might even hasten a possible Washington decision to abandon the installation.

Mayor Boyles declined to comment on the meeting, saying "any statement should come from the governor."

Airport Authority Chairman Leo Beck Jr. said authority members were guests of Chamber officials and a statement should come from Chamber President E. N. (Jack) Thomspsn.

Thompson told The Star that the airport authority and Chamber officials are still exploring the situation, but hinted that a statement might be forthcoming in a couple of days.

Meanwhile in Washington, D.C. an Air Force spokesman issued this statement:

"The second runway would have no bearing on any future decision of the Air Force concerning future utilization of the Lincoln Air Force Base.

"This would apply to both manned bombers and missiles.

"The primary consideration in the utilization of any base is military mission requirements."

'Never Hinted'

Another AF spokesman, who attended an interagency meeting last year in Lincoln on the LAFB-municipal airport matter, said "The Air Force has never hinted the base would be abandoned if the second runway is approved and built."

He said the proposed "operating agreement" for joint use of LAFB and the second runway "is now in Air Force headquarters and under study."

The Federal Aviation Agency's regional office at Kansas City, Mo., said Wednesday that the Lincoln application for federal funds for the second-runway was "forwarded today to Washington."

He said he was unable to comment on what recommendation was made by the regional office.

Lincoln's proposed $1,972,000 second-runway project was approved last September by the Nebraska Aeronautics Commission for forwarding to the FAA.

The plan would locate a 4,000-foot runway about 3,000 feet east of the SAC jet runway for use of commercial and general aviation.

The Airport Authority submitted this plan after the FAA failed to approve an earlier proposal for a new municipal airport east of the city.

Probe Break-Ins

Authorities early Thursday were investigating 3 breakins. City police were checking thefts from service stations at 56th and Holdrege and 14th and High. The sheriff's office was probing a burglary of a truck terminal at 3201 N. 20th. There was no immediate determination of the loss.

7 Perish In Nursing Home Blaze

27 Others In U.S. Capital Hospitalized

Washington (AP) — Seven aged, bedridden patients burned to death Wednesday when racing flames quickly engulfed a 4-story private nursing home for the elderly.

At least 27 other persons—patients, employes, firemen, policemen and passersby — were treated in hospitals. Fire Chief Millard H. Sutton called it "one of the worst fires in years" here.

The 7 who died—4 women and 3 men—were in bed on the top floor when the fire reached them from the basement. Their bodies were found either still in bed or on the floor.

The dead were identified as: Mrs. Ethel Schneider, 70; Mrs. Dora Trent, 75; Mrs. Maude Stevens, 77; Mrs. Alice Hesselbach, 86; Ira Moss, 63; Dr. Ernest F. Burchard, 85; John Gragunier, 90.

Two nurses, Nancy Cogins and Lucy Cartner, said they were on the fourth floor when the alarm was sounded. They said they managed to drag one of the floor's 8 patients to safety, hoping firemen could rescue the other 7.

Passing Citizens Help

Patients on the first 3 floors were taken out by employes, firemen and passing citizens. The aged survivors, shock and bewilderment evident in their faces, were led to nearby buildings. There they waited their turns for ambulances shuttling back and fourth to hospitals.

All available doctors and ambulances in the city were ordered to the scene and many ambulances from nearby Maryland areas were pressed into service.

At least one woman patient was taken down a ladder about an hour after the the flames broke out, despite the speed with which the fire spread.

The brick building — the Mount Vernon Nursing Home —is located in the fashionable Rock Creek Park area near the Calvert St. and Connecticut Ave. bridges across the park.

Jam Created

The streets nearby are normally heavy with traffic. The added rush of fire and rescue equipment plus a rush of onlookers created such a jam that at one time it nearly halted the movement of ambulances.

There were 24 patients in the home along with 5 nurses and two assistants.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

It was discovered by a nurse, Mrs. Ruth Peace, when she opened a basement door. She ran upstairs and began helping patients to escape.

Workers at the home, passersby and firemen who suffered injuries did so mostly in trying to rescue the elderly patients. Some of them made several trips.

Mobutu Says Foes Getting Red Weapons

Leopoldville, The Congo (UPI) — Congolese Army strongman Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu Wednesday accused the United Arab Republic of smuggling Communist Czech-made weapons and ammunition to rebel forces loyal to deposed former Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Mobutu showed newsmen a case of hand grenades and several boxes of ammunition he said were captured by his troops in the battle for Bumba on the border of Equatorial and Oriental provinces last week.

Oriental is the stronghold of the pro-Lumumba forces. They also control Kivu Province which borders Oriental on the south.

(In the neighboring Belgian trust territory of Ruanda-Urundi, U.S. Consul Herbert Olds in Usumbura Wednesday expressed hope that 11 American missionaries stranded in southern Kivu would manage to escape in a few days.

(Other whites, including missionary groups, scattered throughout Kivu and Oriental were reported under almost continuous harrassment by pro-Lumumba soldiers and tribesmen. The Swedish vice-consul at Usumbura expressed "alarm" at the predicament of 13 Swedish missionaries at Lemara. The fate of 40 Norwegian missionaries in Kivu also was unclear.

(Drunken Congolese were said to have broken into the missions to steal food, gas and other supplies.)

The cartridge boxes were marked "made in Czechoslovakia." Mobutu said the grenades also were Czech-made and that his soldiers also seized 3 Czech-manufactured machineguns from the Lumumbist troops.

Mobutu said the arms were flown into Lisala, in Equatorial Province, aboard a Soviet-made UAR Ilyushin transport last month.

Six Chlorine Gas Victims Remain Poor

New Roads, La. (AP) — Six chlorine gas victims fought for life Wednesday at St. Joseph's hospital.

A seventh was removed from the dangerously ill list. Roy Basquine, about 20, who lived across the road from the freight train derailment that released poisonous gas on the community of La Barre Tuesday, was reported improved.

Basquine's parents remained on the critical list along with James Harris Jr., Harris' wife, and their two young sons and daughter.

A nursing supervisor said 16 persons in all who breathed the chlorine fumes Tuesday still were in the hospital.

A survey showed so far 451 farm animals were found killed by the poison.

Arab States Threaten Split With France

Baghdad, Iraq (AP) — Ten Arab League countries threatened Wednesday to break relations with France if the war in Algeria continues.

A resolution was passed unanimously by the foreign ministers after a report by Algerian Provisional Foreign Minister Krim Belkassem. It also promised more "weapons as soon as possible" for the nationalist fighters.

Their threat to sever all ties with France — a step demanded by Belkassem — was worded this way:

"Arab countries will reconsider their political, diplomatic relations with France if the latter continues its war with the Algerian people."

Five of the member countries have had no diplomatic relations with France since 1956. They are the United Arab Republic, Iraq, Jordan, Yemen and Saudi Arabia. But the other 5, Lebanon, Morocco, Tunisia, Libya and Sudan still maintain ties — although Sudan called home its ambassador after the recent French nuclear test in the Sahara.

In an attempt to put more bite in the threat of rupture, league members also vowed to ask Asian and African states "and all other countries supporting the national struggle" to cut off relations.

$500,000 Libel Suit Judgment To Southern Mayor

Montgomery, Ala. (AP) — A state court jury Wednesday night awarded Montgomery Mayor Earl James a $500,000 libel suit judgment against the New York Times and 4 Negro ministers.

The all-white jury deliberated two hours and 10 minutes before reaching a verdict which climaxed the 3-day trial.

It was the same verdict awarded earlier to another city official Police Commissioner L. B. Sullivan, who also sued the Times and the 4 Negro defendants.

The suits by James and Sullivan, and similar complaints by City Commissioner Frank Parks and Gov. John Patterson, grew out of an advertisement published in the Times last March 29 which was critical of the handling of Negro student demonstrations in Montgomery early last year.

Times attorneys said they will appeal. The judgment awarded James was the same as in the Sullivan case.

In awarding the mayor $500,000, the jury gave him the exact amount for which he asked.

Veteran Circus Star, Lecturer; Al Priddy, Dies

Port Angeles, Wash. (UPI) — Al Priddy, 75, widely-known as a circus performer and lecturer and a former Wisconsin resident, died Wednesday.

Priddy began his circus career as an animal trainer's assistant, and had worked for Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey, Al G. Barnes, Hagenback - Wallace and other circuses.

In recent years, he made more than 5,000 talks on circus life to clubs, school and church groups.

Two Alabama Girls Held In Murder Try

Decatur, Ala. (UPI) — Charges of assault with intent to murder were placed Wednesday against two eighth-grade girls who admitted they planned for more than a month to poison a classmate, then gave up the plan and stabbed her with a butcher knife.

Morgan County officers called the confession of the 13-year-old classmates "fantastic."

The girls were identified as Linda Higdon and Dorothy Holt, both of Danville, Ala.

The two, according to police, admitted they stabbed Willene Hill in a restroom at Danville School, located in a rural community southwest of here.

The plot resulted from arguments concerning a small sum of money which had disappeared and the fact that Willene had caught one of the girls smoking and had threatened to tell on her.

One of the girls plunged the butcher knife into Willene's back and according to their plans the other was to grab the knife and "finish her off." However, the girl screamed and the plans were foiled when the second girl was unable to get the knife out. Willene suffered a punctured lung.

Investigating officers, Sheriff Knox McRae, state investigator E. B. Watts and other police said the girls told them they had been plotting to kill the eighth-grader since about Christmas.

They apparently first decided to poison the girl with rat poison, then decided on another type of poison. Both plans were given up for some reason.

Bankers Appear To Protest Unclaimed Funds Measure

By Don Walton

A bill which would give the State of Nebraska custody of all unclaimed or abandoned property or money in the state was heard and held Wednesday by the Public Health Committee.

Enactment of the measure "could mean $1 million to the state," Sen. Joe Vosoba of Wilber told the committee.

The bill drew concentrated opposition from the Nebraska Bankers Assn., the League of Nebraska Savings and Loan Asss., the League of Nebraska Municipalities, railroads, power districts and a life insurance company.

Only Sen. Albert Kjar of Lexington rose to support Vosoba at the hearing.

Following two hours of testimony by opponents, Vosoba suggested: "It is a pity there are no lobbyists here representing the people."

The bill, LB160, would apply only to property unclaimed or abandoned for 10 years.

The holder of the property would at that time write to the last known address of the owner and if no reply was forthcoming, turn over the property to the state treasurer.

He would in turn also seek to find the owner by letter and through publication of legal notices.

Lacking a reply, the state treasurer would place the money received either in cash or from the sale of property into the state general fund.

A $25,000 special fund would be maintained with which to pay claims.

The true owner could at any time recover his property or its value from the state, Vosoba said.

LB160, he suggested, would serve 3 major purposes: provide revenue for the state, rid the holder of liability, and help locate owners.

A similar bill was killed by a 4-3 committee vote late in the 1959 session.

Chauncey Barney, representing Nebraska bankers, said the measure would be "a burden out of line with the basic obligations of banks."

Opponents also claimed it would present a management problem, a confiscatory volume of work for holders, and a costly new task for the state.

'May Leave State'

Byron Dunn, president of the National Bank of Commerce of Lincoln, suggested that the money currently held in the state "may go out of Nebraska if the treasurer invests it in government bonds."

James Ackerman, general counsel of the Bankers Life Insurance Co. of Nebraska, said his company's experience with a similar law in Pennsylvania suggests that "the cost of administration by the state would exceed revenue."

However, Vosoba said Pennsylvania has taken in $5 million in 7 years under the statute.

The committee also:

—amended LB99 to exclude saliva tests for drunken driving, then advanced the measure providing for breath tests to the floor on a 7-0 vote.

—heard and advanced (7-0) LB252, providing juvenile court judges with Supreme Court reports.

Family Service Association Meeting Hears Bishop Casey

"Deny a divine source to man's rights and you destroy any claim to inalienable rights of man," said the most Reverend James V. Casey, Bishop of Lincoln, Wednesday night.

Speaking at Family Service Association's 70th annual meeting, with over 300 in attendance, he emphasized:

"Unless their ultimate source lies outside the reach of all human agencies, they remain forever in jeopardy."

Here in America, he said, we recognize that man's pursuit of happiness on earth takes place within the framework of the family.

"But generally your (Family Service) clients do not come to you as families, but as individuals in need.

"We must have very clear ideas about the nature of man and his ultimate purpose in human existence," the bishop explained.

The common philosophy needed to direct social workers could be summed up in the words "God exists," the bishop maintained.

"Man is either a child of God or a child of the State," he said, and recalled: "He who gives may also take away."

Using the tenet "God exists" might seem catechetical in nature, the bishop said, yet it represents the most fundamental values of life and must form the foundation of social work.

"But no one expects you as a social worker or educator to become a part-time minister who delivers sermons to your clients. But it is a fact that effective help can be given to lonely frustrated man and his problems only by those who understand his nature and his purpose."

New officers were elected at the meeting. Returning as president is Frank M. Hallgren. Vice president is Richard Blomgren. Frank White was elected treasurer and Ada S. Westover, secretary.

Filling vacancies on the board of directors for 3-year terms are: Elsworth DuTeau, Miss Anna M. Evans, Hallgren, Henry H. Hansen, Eugene O. Ingram, Van Westover and White.

Solons Mum On Retirement For Teachers

Two of Lincoln's 3 senators had "no comment" Wednesday on why the Lincoln delegation declined to introduce a bill relating to teacher retirement.

The 3rd senator, Marvin E. Stromer, said the proposal for a retirement program for Lincoln's teachers "needs further study."

Queried on their reasons for not introducing the measure, Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme and Sen. George Knight replied, "no comment."

The Lincoln Board of Education had outlined the proposed plan at a special meeting last Thursday attended by representatives of all segments of the local school system and community leaders.

Basically, the plan would have provided a retirement fund for all employes of the Lincoln Public Schools with 20 years or more service upon reaching the compulsory retirement age of 65.

It would have asked the district taxpayers for about $260,000 annually, raising the present school levy approximately 1 1-3 mills.

Supt. Steven Watkins said that it was felt a plan such as this would help retain capable persons and tend to reduce the drawing power of other states for Lincoln teachers.

The Omaha schools are the only other system in the state with a retirement program. However, it differs in that it is contributory, while Lincoln's proposed plan would not have been.

Kansas-Nebraska Buys Oil Interest

Hastings (AP) — President S. D. Whiteman of Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co. announced Wednesday that his company has purchased a 50% interest in Dunne-Gardner Drilling Co., Inc., of Wichita, Kan.

A spokesman said Whiteman was elected board chairman of Dunne-Gardner at an organizational meeting in Wichita.

The Kansas firm is in the business of exploring for gas and oil and has producing properties in Kansas and Texas.

Federal Taxes From Mrs. Hurtz Estate $197,987

Omaha (AP) — The estate of Mrs. Laura H. Hurtz of Omaha will pay $197,987.65 in federal taxes and $7,350 to 4 Nebraska counties. The total estate was $1,033,732.65.

Mrs. Hurtz, who died in December, was the widow of Leonard E. Hurtz, former president and chairman of the board of Fairmont Foods, Inc.

The county taxes will go to Douglas, Custer, Hamilton and Morrill. Mrs. Hurtz had property in all 4.

Most of the estate went to relatives with two daughters, Mrs. Sarah H. Robbins and Mrs. Margaret H. Watson, and a son, E. Hurtz Jr., each receiving about $245,000.

Loyal Forces Claim A Vital Junction

. . . In Laos Fighting

Vientiane, Laos (UPI) — Twin government columns supported by rocket-firing planes have captured the important road junction of Sala Phou Khoun from the communists.

The victory cleared the way for a government assault on the Plain of Jars and opening the highway between the administrative and royal capitals of Laos.

(But the communist Pathet Lao Radio, monitored in Tokyo, denied that Sala Phou Khoun had fallen to the government. It said the rebels "inflicted heavy losses" to the loyalist troops and added the strategic junction "is still under the control" of the rebels.)

Dag Seeks Authority In Congo Fight

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold asked the U.N. Security Council Wednesday for authority to take the Congolese army out of political conflicts threatening the Congo with civil war.

He made the request after Adlai E. Stevenson, in his first speech as U.S. delegate, said the United States applauded the council's efforts to help the Congo's orderly transition to real independence "through the Secretary-General."

Stevenson called also for adequate financial and moral support for the Secretary-General, long under attack from the Soviet bloc. He also urged that the council "avoid useless recrimination."

Patient Search

Earlier, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin, joining in a round of welcoming speeches, hailed Stevenson as a champion of international collaboration and proposed "a patient search for mutually acceptable solutions."

He expressed hope that with Stevenson at the council representing the Kennedy administration the council "will be able to discharge its duties much better than unfortunately has been the case up to now."

Stevenson's remarks were made in answering the welcoming speeches—a council formality before Hammarskjold launched the actual Congo debate.

Hammarskjold declared the recent transfer of deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba to Katanga province seemed to have widened the rift between Congolese authorities in Leopoldville where Kasavubu is paramount, and those in Oriental and Kivu provinces, where Lumumba's supporters hold sway.

He told the council the army had split into separate units taking sides in this conflict and itself "has been and continues to be the main threat to law and order in the Congo," the objective of the U.N. force there.

Guatemala Sorry About Flag Blaze

Guatemala City (AP) — The foreign ministry condemned Wednesday the burning of an American flag in this city's main intersection last Saturday.

A note to the U.S. embassy expressed Guatemala's "sincere regrets." police could not catch the unidentified group.

One of the flag-burners had called out:

"Before the Guatemalan people we burn the most imperialistic flag in the world."

3 Girls Hurt

Three Seward girls suffered minor injuries in an auto accident 8 miles west of Emerald Wednesday night.

They were identified by Lincoln General Hospital officials as Marge Able, 15, Cheryl Rhode, 14, and Janet Moravec, 15. All 3 were released after treatment.

Airline Office Theft Solved

Washington (AP) — Arrest of an employe of the Qantas Empire Airways in the theft of $100,000 from a safe in the Australian Airline's San Francisco office was announced here Wednesday night by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The FBI identified the man arrested as James Leslie Chapman, 26, a cargo agent for Qantas. The FBI said some of the money was recovered from safe deposit boxes where Chapman had placed it but pending count it was not known whether it all was recovered.

The stolen currency was part of a shipment of $180,000 sent via British Overseas Airways from a Hong Kong bank to the Crocker-Anglo Bank in San Francisco. One muslin-covered packet contained $100,000, another $80,000.

It arrived after banking hours last Wednesday, Jan. 25, and was placed in the Qantas safe. A midnight check showed it intact but at noon on Thursday when the safe was opened again the $100,000 package was missing although the $80,000 packet was still in the safe.

Chapman was arrested Wednesday morning in a San Francisco Turkish bath and, the announcement said, he took the agents to his Burlingame, Calif., home and showed them where he had hidden the keys to 3 safe deposit boxes in which he had placed the stolen money. One of the boxes was in the Crocker-Anglo Bank.

Chapman was charged under a federal statute covering theft from a foreign shipment and was taken to San Francisco City Prison. Conviction under this law carries a possible penalty of a $5,000 fine, 10 years' imprisonment, or both.

BANDITS WANT DOUGH--'GET IT' FROM WOMAN

St. Louis (AP) — A woman payroll clerk was accosted by two bandits Wednesday and handed one of them a paper bag. But it contained the wrong dough.

The woman was returning to the wholesale drugstore at which she works after withdrawing the money from a bank when two men in a car intentionally bumped into her auto.

One of the men produced a revolver and demanded the money. She handed over a paper bag.

That bag contained pastry. She concealed the one with the money in it.

The robbers ran back to their car without looking in their bag and fled.

The woman asked police not to reveal her name.

History, In A Way, Repeats

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

History of great importance was written when the House of Representatives, by a narrow majority of five votes, approved a change in the Rules Committee organization. The change will add three members to the committee, thus breaking the six-to-six tie that has developed in the group on decisions affecting liberal legislation.

Two of the new committee members, to be appointed by Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn, will be liberal Democrats while the third new member will be a Republican. In theory, at least, this will result in an eight-to-seven split in favor of liberal legislation. It is important that there be a clear understanding of what this action was all about. The purpose of the Rules Committee is exactly as its name implies. It is to assign to legislative proposals rules governing their consideration on the floor. This includes a place on the calendar, time permitted for debate, permission or refusal of amendment, etc.

Committee's Functions

But what the Rules Committee had become is quite another thing. It had become judge of legislation and a negative legislative body all its own. It didn't just pass on rules; it determined what the rest of the House would vote on. If six members of the committee didn't like a certain piece of legislation, they simply failed to assign it rules and pass it out of committee. This, of course, deprived the House of a majority decision on legislation.

Six members of the House were deciding such major issues as aid to depressed areas, aid to education, civil rights, etc. Proponents of a continuation of this process make much of the fact that there were ways of circumventing the committee if it was the feeling of the House to do so. But what they failed to point out was that these ways of circumvention were cumbersome, time-consuming and next to a practical impossibility.

The change which was approved was of immediate importance because it gave some assurance that the programs of the new administration will at least get to a floor test rather than dying of old age in the Rules Committee. It seems fantastic that any member of the House would vote against a process as fundamentally democratic as the majority rule concept. Not only does the change give the program of President Kennedy a fair chance, but it substantially improves his administration in the eyes of the world.

As other governments viewed this crucial test, the President was being given a vote of either confidence or no confidence. Had the House failed to change the Rules Committee membership, Kennedy's estimation in the eyes of other nations of the world would have been seriously impaired. Thus, it is not just his domestic program that was at stake in this issue, but his international position and that means the position of the nation as a whole. At such a crucial time as this, such a blow would have been an alarming one.

But as history was written with the change in the House Rules Committee, so history in some respects was repeated. At almost this same time of year back in 1910 there was another battle fought over the dictatorial power of the Rules Committee as wielded by then Speaker of the House Joe Cannon. The committee was the tool by which Cannon exercised control over what legislation reached the House floor.

His control came by virtue of his appointment of the committee members. As in the present case, the majority at that time was being thwarted by the will of even fewer than six men—by the will of just one single man. In the case of the six men of today, Nebraska's House delegation voted unanimously in favor of the perpetuation of their autocratic rule.

But in 1910 it was a Nebraskan, Independent Rep. George W. Norris, who not only voted against Cannon's dictatorial power but conceived and led the fight that was his undoing. Norris was only partially successful at that time, compromising with a plan to put Rules Committee assignments in the hands of the entire House. He wanted appointments made according to nationwide districts—a plan, had it been successful, that would probably have meant no such battle as was joined Tuesday in the House. But Norris was more than a liberal—he was a champion of the rights of the individual and the principles of democracy.

Voice Above The Crowd

Thus, as history is repeated today, we find Norris, both in where he stood and what he stood for, a contrast to those who represent Nebraska in the House at this time. While the repetition of history was a success for the nation, it was a discouraging episode for Nebraska by virtue of the reactionary and despotic position taken unanimously by its colorless House delegation.

Oil Pressure Down On 'New Frontier'

WASHINGTON — Bobby Kennedy, the good-looking, hard-hitting new attorney general, made three moves last week which may give insight into the Kennedy administration's approach to one economic problem of great importance — oil.

Move No. 1 was a hurried trip the new attorney general made to the Senate to pressure senators for the confirmation of John Connally, prominent Texas oil attorney, to be secretary of the Navy.

Calling Sen. William Proxmire off the floor just before the Wisconsin Democrat was to make a speech against Connally, Kennedy urged him to reverse his position, quoted an FBI report as one reason for doing so.

The attorney general, next to the President, is the most potent man in the cabinet. He has the power of prosecution. Not many congressmen stand up to him. Proxmire, however, went ahead with his speech, argued that an oilman who favored turning government oil lands over to private exploitation was not qualified to handle the Navy's precious oil reserves.

Move No. 2 took place almost simultaneously, as attorney general Kennedy let Bob Bicks, best antitrust prosecutor the Justice Department has had since Thurman Arnold, retire to privite life. Bicks, a Republican, had called the shots as he saw them, had cracked down on big Republican campaign contributors, been especially tough on the oil and gas companies, had bucked ex-Gov. Tom Dewey in a huge case involving Dewey's clients, Peoples' Gas.

In one of the most scathing denunciations of the oil companies ever issued by a government official, Bicks told the Joint Economic Committee of Congress, Sept., '59: "The oil industry furnishes the most remarkable illustration of a tendency toward exemption from the antitrust law by action of the executive branch.

"The most striking recent exercise of executive discretion to dispense with competition was in the case of the Iranian oil cartel, where, without legislative authority, five leading American oil companies were permitted to join with dominant foreign interests in the greatest international oil cartel the world has ever seen."

Last summer, Democratic oil and gas senators blocked Bicks' confirmation as assistant attorney general. Sen. Lyndon Johnson, when urged to help confirm Bicks, gave some polite palaver, but no help. It became quite clear that though the Democrats talked big about cracking down on big business, they didn't want to act big where an opponent of big oil was concerned.

Later, when Kennedy was elected, his brother, the new attorney general, was urged to retain the courageous young trust-buster. But on almost the same day Bobby Kennedy went to the Senate to help get a friend of oil, John Connally, confirmed as secretary of the Navy, he let Bicks, the critic of oil, retire from the Justice Department.

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

To Your Good Health

"Dear Dr. Molner: I had a physical examination and my doctor told me everything was fine, but still I can't understand why at the end of the day my ankles and feet swell. I wonder whether I am allergic to nylon hose. I admit I am overweight. Do you think it might be due to this? — Mrs. A. M."

Remember: the body (like many other things) is a combination of lots of parts, and lots of factors.

Let's compare it to a railroad train. Suppose the train isn't going as fast as it should go. What causes this? Well, maybe because the axles need lubrication, or perhaps because the engine is using a lower grade of fuel than usual, or perhaps it's a bigger-than-average train, or maybe it is going around curves constantly, or going slightly uphill, or the pistons are worn, or the train has a lot of steel in its cars instead of a cargo of strawberries, tissue paper and life preservers.

Dr. Molner

See what I mean? With all those possibilities, there might be only one or two factors which an inspector (or, in the case of people, a doctor) might detect and say, "That's faulty; something ought to be done."

Keep the train over loaded for too long, and the axles will wear, the engine will be burdened, and in time something will break down.

It's the same way with the body. The heart may be functioning well, and the kidneys, and the other organs. But if they are under too much burden (meaning that you are overweight, and they have to assume the task of operating a body that carries too much freight) something is going to break down sooner than it should.

You can be O.K. as far as the specific tests go — but if you are too heavy, you shouldn't be surprised if one part or another of your system begins to rebel. Feet and ankles swell at the end of the day? Could be. It's no more than reasonable.

Looking for an excuse like being "allergic to nylon hose" is merely evading the issue. After all, you could long since have tested that out. You could have used leg paint, or gotten a reasonable tan, and gone without nylons for three or four weeks, to see whether it made any difference.

No, don't come to me to help you bolster your excuses. Don't tell me that just because you passed your general examination that it is all right to be overweight and not expect it to show its effects one way or another.

In short — stop kidding yourself. I'd much rather have you face facts, and get your weight down to normal. After all, your doctor reminded you that you were overweight, didn't he? Then he didn't really say everything was all right. He said — le's face it — he said, reduce.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any connection between tic douloureux and sinus condition?—Mrs. K. R."

Tic douloureux (painful neuralgia of nerves in the face) can come from various causes, and sometimes we cannot even trace them. It has no direct connection with sinus trouble; however, since infection may be one of the causes of tic, it is wise to look for focal infections of the sinuses, teeth, etc. It's an ailment, by the way, which is much more frequent in elderly people.

☆ ☆ ☆

Note to C. M'G: No, lupus erythematosis has nothing to do with cancer.

"Dear Dr. Molner: When a child breaks out with a smooth rash, has high fever, joints ache, and the doctor gives penicillin, and says it is scarlet fever, and the child is well in two weeks and does not peel—does peeling have to take place in scarlet fever, or could it be roseola which was going around? — Mrs. H. B."

Lacking of peeling does not mean it it is not scarlet fever, although I grant that peeling is usual. Mild forms of scarlet fever — which we now see more commonly — can easily be confused with roseola. Indeed, roseola is merely a general term for any red, rashlike disease, German measles being the most common. Others are drug rashes and virus infections. In any event, other factors in a given case usually make it clear whether the case is or isn't scarlet fever. In some instances, laboratory tests may be needed to be certain. But after the case has been successfully ended, does it matter?

☆ ☆ ☆

"Dear Dr. Molner: I had phlebitis in one leg after the birth of a child seven years ago. My doctor says I still have a residue of it. The leg measures about an inch larger than the other. Is there a chance it may get larger still? — X. Y."

The leg is larger because the return flow of blood is hampered. Whether it gets larger cannot be predicted.

Dr. Molner is always glad to hear from his readers, and whenever possible he uses their question in his column, but because of the tremendous volume of mail received daily, he cannot answer individual letters.

Precious Little Help

It appears that the special three-man task force assigned to the attack on the farm problem has fired a blank. In terms of a constructive usable remedy it matched the confusion of tongues which characterized the conference of farm organizations.

The committee gave a fishy eye to higher price supports tied in with tighter acreage allotments, mainly on the presumption that operating agriculture would not go for it. It also concluded that the soil bank program should be considerably expanded but summarized its labors by warning that none of its recommendations singly or collectively would end overproduction. That being about where the committee came in, it retired from the scene.

Some said the findings coincided with the Republican concept as expressed by Richard Nixon during the campaign. But no thoughtful and informed student of the farm program gave the Nixon panacea any better rating than that of a seven day political wonder which would not stand the test of application. It contained two principle plans. One was to triple the size of the present soil bank at a staggering national cost. The companion piece was to attract free acres from production by returning to the producer the amount of the product from existing government reserves he would normally have grown had he worked the withdrawn acres. Such a plan would have loaded the producer with a surfeit to be disposed of at whatever price the market would have yielded, but it would have permitted the administration to dip into the accumulations of a past administration for a hit and run attack on a current problem, a device which would have made the current budget look good without either solving the basic problem or relieving the farmer.

All of which adds up to a piece of advice to the Kennedy administration. It is to forget the dreary and unimaginative advice drawn from past failure and to proceed on its own.

Not A True Picture

The chimpanzee which was sent into space, returned and survived apparently took the historic flight in routine fashion. But the behavior and attitude of the chimp are not characteristic of the significance of the Air Force space venture from Cape Canaveral. The feat is really a fantastic one and gives us only an inkling of what the future might hold for mankind.

The experiment proves, of course, that man can enter space and be returned, all at phenomenal rates of speed, in comparative safety. One must say "comparative safety" because there is no such thing as transportation in absolute safety, even if it be by foot. The world will not be immediately changed when man takes the same trip that the chimp has now experienced.

But the world will be changed when this mode of travel is adopted for specific useful purposes. When space can be entered and explored, there is no way of knowing what the results might be. Up until now, exploration has hinged simply on the problem of leaving and entering the world's gravitational force. Now that this problem seems to be about solved, the program can go on to its next phases.

When man can enter space and remain there, when he can actually maneuver and operate a vehicle in the outer atmosphere of the universe, he will provide a new concept of national defense and many other changes. With such success we may well learn things about our own planet that will amaze us. Certainly, tremendous advances in weather information can be expected and perhaps even some means of control over the weather. The trip for the chimp may have been just another joy ride but for the country it was an excursion into a totally new realm of knowledge.

On A Guiding Light

This January just ended should remain in the memory longer than usual if for only one thing. It was the birth month, the four hundredth anniversary of the birth of Francis Bacon, known in the England of his time as the Viscount of St. Albans.

He is important because while he has long gone to dust his philosophy and expressions still hold the reins to a great part of our thinking. He still shapes a part of what we please to call our outlook on life.

On the occasion of the new sitting of the U.S. Supreme Court President Kennedy and other important figures of government went to church and heard a trenchant sermon on law as the bulwark of human rights. It is interesting to know that Francis Bacon made a powerful imprint on the philosophy of law, as did Blackstone later. In that respect he did humanity a great service.

He was also a genius in the field of philosophy and expressed concepts that disciplined and guided later philosophers who combined to give form and definition to many of our attitudes toward our neighbor in specific and society in general.

There is one thing regrettable about Bacon. He was a bright guiding light for the human mind, but the personal example of his living and behaviour was an impressive demonstration of delinquency. He got thrown out of Queen Elizabeth's court for impudently opposing her wishes. He was caught red handed capitalizing on conflict of interest and admitted so much embezzlement that he was fined $400,000 which in those days was a close equivalent of the total amount of money in the British Isles, plus a jail sentence that would look hopelessly long to Methuselah. But he somehow wormed out of it by spending one day in the Tower of London, after which he lived to a ripe old age spending a great deal more than he had at the expense of his creditors.

Narrow Victory, Few Guarantees

WASHINGTON — As President Kennedy said of his own election, the margin is narrow but the responsibility is clear.

A coalition of 195 Democrats and 22 progressive Republicans has crashed the House Rules Committee roadblock against welfare legislation. The administration is now obliged to offer the legislation and try to pass it on its merits.

No one factor produced the winning margin of five votes against 148 Republicans and 64 Democrats. House Speaker Sam Rayburn's hold on the loyalties of the flock he has led so long, the labors of the President's political aides in and out of the White House, the President's own austere portrait of the world situation—had any one of these failed to deliver, the battle would have been lost.

It will take time to sort out the price paid and chart the shifts of the past few days. For a few agonizing moments before the vote began, House liberals even heard fresh talk of new compromises.

☆ ☆ ☆

They have won after years of frustration. But they are not gloating.

Narrow legislative divisions place a premium on absenteeism by those members who are subject to conflicting pressures. There were some such when the rules vote was taken, though fewer than the speaker had feared.

One possibility exists which could soften the legislative struggle.

If President Kennedy captures the public imagination, if he manages to persuade the American people that their tasks are as formidable as he himself believes, the real steam will go out of the conservative coalition. Its big-business backing is not what has made the Smith-Halleck alliance formidable and effective; it is the picture so long painted by former President Eisenhower of a nation confronting problems but doing on the whole extremely well.

No voice in Congress—and some were raised—and no political observer whatever his prestige could outtalk the victorious general who led the World War II armies. They protested in vain and lit their candles in the darkness. President Eisenhower stood firm and insisted all was well. Many people believe he would still be doing so were it not for the 22nd amendment barring him from a third term.

President Kennedy's moderate manners following his close election had convinced some people that his course also would be much more moderate than his campaign. His State of The Union message went far to demolish the notion that somehow he wasn't as tough as he talks.

The rules vote amounts to a green light for the White House, and the Kennedy follow-through will be equally revealing.

Make-Believe

Blair, Neb.

Those who think that Wayne Hightower, prominent basketball star for K.U., will not win his current tussle with his grades can form a small line to the right.

It would seem that the heads of our higher institutions of learning should begin to take a more practical, honest and realistic position on athletics. Since sports cannot be eliminated and since they are so vital to the general morale of the students and alumnae, perhaps the athletic branch should form a little subsidiary kingdom of their own.

Those who dominate the basketball courts, the masses of muscle and blubber that go to make up the modern football machine, should be regarded as hired gladiators. They should be paid for their time. They should have a special curriculum which shouldn't include anything more difficult than simple spelling. English and how to win games. After all, the great majority of the members of the modern college football or basketball teams have little use for the higher arts and science. They want to be coaches, professionals or good willers.

Why burden the consciences of the profs by requiring them to stamp "passing grade" on the mass of trivia and illiteracy handed in by the so-called greats of the grid? One of the more amusing aspects of our modern educational establishments is in the "make-believe games" being played between the educational branch and the athletic branch.

Dealing With Facts

Hastings, Neb.

Recently the newspapers carried an item that Sen. Sam Klaver had introduced a resolution to the Nebraska Legislature requesting an investigation of case workers because of what he calls unlawful, inhuman and improper treatment of people who are applying for or receiving public aid or welfare.

It may surprise Mr. Klaver but many of the people in this situation do not realize that the laws of Nebraska require that the case workers deal strictly with facts. Sometimes these people handle the truth so recklessly that when the case worker attempts to secure the facts and later does, the people who misrepresent their situation become angry and blame the case worker because they have been inaccurate about residence, resources, income, etc., and been found out.

Perhaps it would be to the advantage of the taxpayers if investigations were instituted about the way some of the would-be benefactors of humanity suspect employes under the merit system who attempt to carry out the directives as laid down by the statutes of Nebraska.

The Protection

Lincoln, Neb.

Are the local persons promoting the fluoridation of our public water supplies acquainted with the work done in our Congress to protect the physician-patient relationship, as mentioned by Dr. Frank Lopp in a recent letter?

In the Congressional Record of January 18, 1954, President Eisenhower said: "Freedom, consent and individual responsibility are fundamental to our system. In the field of medical care, this means that the traditional relationship of the physician and his patient and the right of the individual to elect freely the manner of his care in illness must be preserved."

Will those promoting the addition to all our drinking water of the element used in bombs, rat and roach powders, tranquilizers, tenderizers, glass-etching and detergents—to help little kiddies teeth, they think—allow the same promoters to add to all drinking water the elements in paint and varnish removers, etc. for arthritis, stiff joints, baldness, lameness, debility, sleeplessness, languor, degeneration, senility to help any and all of Grandpa's deficiencies, they think?

How many original promoters had the pleasure of physician-patient relationship, I wonder?

Sticker Plates

Lincoln, Neb.

Those miserable little glued stickers they call license plates are a disgrace to the state of Nebraska. Who gets the rest of the profit from the $8 fee? Those cheap little scraps won't stay on a car three months.

We pay plenty of taxes on our cars, too much, in fact, in county taxes. They say that $4.50 of the raise in county taxes was for the schools. Where did the rest go? They need a housecleaning in that department. There are too many idle girls just standing around just looking. Every time taxes are raised, they raise salaries.

What about our poor old people who live on less than $75 a month? They deserve better treatment. Our government is falling apart.

State Legislature Passes One Bill

Nebraska's Legislature, recuperating from the biggest bill-introduction day in Unicameral history, met for less than one hour Wednesday, set dates for an Easter vacation, passed one bill and sent it to the governor, then adjourned until Thursday.

The Easter vacation, legislators decided, will last 5 days, will begin Thursday night, March 30, and end Wednesday morning, April 5.

The bill given final approval — fourth to be passed this session — was LB85, introduced by Sen. William Moulton of Omaha. It increased from 6 to 7 per cent the interest rate on deferred installments of special assessments for road improvement districts, bringing the rate in line with those already prescribed for Omaha and Lincoln.

The measure won 40-0 approval.

Much of the day's 58 minute meeting was devoted to a discussion of rules, with particular reference to the "statement of intent" which introducers of bills are required for the first time this session to file as part of the legislative process. Differences developed over whether committee chairmen must have such statements in hand before setting public hearings on the bills referred to. No formal action grew out of the discussion.

Wednesday's take-it-easy session followed Tuesday's avalanche of new bills, provoked by the fact Tuesday was the 20th legislative day, last day for introduction of bills by individual senators.

Senators dumped 237 bills into the hopper Tuesday.

Not one bill was introduced Wednesday.

Only bills sponsored by standing committees or recommended by the governor may be introduced henceforth.

75 NU Law Students Honor J. Lee Rankin

More than 75 law students attended a luncheon Wednesday honoring J. Lee Rankin, the 31st U.S. solicitor general, and a graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Law.

Rankin will receive an honorary Doctor of Laws degree Saturday from the University.

Mick Neff, president of legal fraternity Phi Delta Phi, presided at the luncheon, attended by members of 3 legal fraternities.

Feeders Meet Set

Arlington — Ray Switzer of the Sioux City Stockyards will be the guest speaker at the Washington County Feeders Assn. annual dinner Wednesday, Feb. 8, at the Arlington Auditorium.

Entrance Rules For Midwest Hog Show Changed

Fremont—Rules for entering for the 9th annual Midwest Market Hog Show here March 11 have been altered slightly since an earlier announcement.

The rules now state that the show is open to anyone, but each exhibitor will be limited to one pen of 3 market hogs. In addition, each exhibitor must be at least 8 years of age, according to Leo Lucas, Extension animal husbandman at the University of Nebraska.

Hog producers interested in entering animals in the show should contact county Extension agents in Iowa or Nebraska or the Livestock Department, George A. Hormel Co., Fremont, for show rules and an application blank. Applications must be postmarked not later than March 4.

May Be Public Hearing On Insurance Resolution

Sen. John Munnelly of Omaha Wednesday said he will hold a public hearing on a resolution before the Banking Commerce and Insurance Committee if legislative rules so dictate.

Munnelly is chairman of the committee.

The resolution, introduced by Munnelly, calls for an investigation of the State Department of Insurance.

Sen. Michael Russillo of Omaha pointed out on the floor of the Legislature a rule which provides that a committee to which a resolution may be referred must hold a public hearing on the matter.

Munnelly's committee earlier this week voted 7-0 in executive session to recommend that the Legislature pursue the insurance investigation.

The committee has scheduled an executive session next to discuss the resolution.

Monday with former Insurance Director William Grubbs Russillo also suggested that the committee was not operating "in conformance with the rules" by closing its executive sessions to members of the press.

After two closed meetings, newsmen were admitted to the committee's session Tuesday.

Took 45 Minutes To Locate Man Slugging Worker

Ogallala (AP) — Ogallala police and state safety patrol troopers needed but 45 minutes to capture a man who slugged a filling station attendant as his car was being serviced.

Held at the Ogallala jail is James Wesley Neighbors, 24, who gave his home town as Rosewell, Mo.

Victim of the slugging was Ken Asche, Ogallala, who is hospitalized with severe head lacerations.

Asche said he was slugged with a large wrench as he was filling the car with gasoline at the station on the west edge of Ogallala. Neighbors was nabbed on the east side of town.

Cal Poly Player Tells CAB Pilot Drinking Before Crash

Oakland, Calif. (UPI) — A 24-year-old halfback said Wednesday he thought one of the pilots had been drinking before the crash of an Arctic Pacific C46 that killed 22 persons including 17 members of the California Polytechnic football team.

His testimony at a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing was contradicted by a stewardess who said she was positive neither pilot had been drinking. Medical reports gave no indication that there was alcohol in the pilots' blood, witnesses said.

Other testimony indicated that engine failure seconds after the wheels cleared the runway caused the crash which occurred in dense fog while the plane was taking off from Toledo, O., on Oct. 29 last year.

Drinking Some

James H. Fahey, the halfback, told investigators shortly after the crash that one of the pilots walked within 3 feet of him as they were boarding the plane and that Fahey said, "whew, that man has been drinking some!"

Fahey said at Wednesday's hearing that he was not sure whether the man was Capt. Donald G. Chesher, the pilot, or copilot Harold Perovich. Both died in the crash.

First string fullback Carl Bowser testified that he heard Fahey's remark as the pilots moved down the aisle shortly before takeoff.

Took Pledge

Stewardess Mrs. Faith Miller, Seattle, said she was with Chesher for 6 hours before takeoff and was sure he had not been drinking. She said he had "taken a pledge" and had not had a drink for two years.

Chesher's pilot's license had been suspended for falsification of records but he continued to fly pending action on his appeal.

The stewardess said she knew Perovich well and that she was "absolutely positive" he would not drink before a flight.

Billy M. Hopper, human factors specialist for the CAB, testified that tests disclosed no alcohol in the body of either pilot.

Ralph E. Stokes, CAB safety investigator who interviewed survivors, said 15 passengers reported "backfiring, sputtering or missing sounds" from one of the two engines during the runup period.

Stokes said 7 airport employes reported "a definite moment of silence, or relative quiet" just before the plane verred to the left after clearing the runway and plunged to earth.

Eight of 26 survivors, Stokes said, described the takeoff run as erratic.

Cal Poly Coach F. Sheldon Harden said the plane was "fishtailing" just before the crash. "I prepared myself for a crash by dropping my head between my legs," he said.

'No Sweat'

Another coach, Leroy B. Hughes, said he asked the pilot if the takeoff in dense fog would be hazardous and the pilot replied, "no sweat."

Howard R. O'Daniels, assistant coach, said he thought the plane was "horsed off" the ground — pulled off before it had reached safe flying speed.

Team physician Dr. Arthur James said that because of the plane's erratic movement down the runway there was "discussion regarding the procedure for crashes. There was enough time so we could figure out what to do."

Violation

CAB air safety investigator William L. Lamb said the pilots violated weather regulations by taking off in zero visibility when the minimum should have been 300 to 400 feet.

He testified also that the plane carried 2,000 pounds more than legal weight and that the manifest did not list two persons who were aboard —the copilot's mother and sister-in-law.

He said that on the eastbound trip Chesher flew nearly 14 hours in a 24-hour period whereas Federal Aviation Agency regulations specify that pilots should not work more than 8 hours.

400 Expected As NREA Convention Starts

More than 400 registrations are expected at the 25th annual meeting of the Nebraska Rural Electric Assn., getting underway in Lincoln Thursday.

Jack Thompson, president of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce will be on hand early in the morning to deliver the welcoming address to the general session.

An address by Gov. Frank Morrison at the joint luncheon of the men's and women's delegates will highlight Thursday's program.

Also on the first-day agenda is presentation of safety awards to 17 NREA member systems who have operated during 1960 without a lost-time accident. NREA and 3 insurance companies covering the systems will make the presentations.

Other Speakers

Other local speakers scheduled for Thursday include Lincoln architect Emiel Christensen, who is designing the new 4-H camp to be built near Halsey, and Mayor Bartlett E. Boyles, who will extend Lincoln's greetings at the evening banquet.

Committee reports on both national and state levels will fill the first morning followed by the luncheon and address by Gov. Morrison.

After a busy afternoon of reports by REA officials and others, including Ray McDonald, Washington, D.C. NREA field representative, who will outline the retirement and security program conducted by the national association, the group will move on to its banquet.

Headlined by Mayor Boyles, the annual banquet will conclude Thursday's sessions with the presentation of Dorothy Mae Paulson of Nelson, who will reign as Miss Nebraska Rural Electrification.

TB 'Skin Tests' Underway For 5th, 10th Grade Pupils

Wednesday was the first day of the weekly tuberculosis skin testing study for 5th and 10th grade pupils in Lancaster County.

Dorothy Ogden, executive secretary of the Lancaster County Tuberculosis Assn., said that the tests will be given at 4 different schools each Wednesday until all schools in the county have been tested.

The tests are given on Wednesday, and the "test team" physicians return on Friday to determine the results.

Mrs. Ogden said that the number of children tested each week would be known on Fridays.

5-Man Group Appointed To Study Proposed Gas Fund Tax Change

Hastings (UPI) — State Sen. Richard D. Marvel, Hastings, has asked a 5-man committee from his district of Adams and Kearney Counies to make a full study of a proposal to change the allocation of gasoline tax funds between counties and cities.

Marvel introduced the proposal in the Legislature on a "by request" basis to beat the deadline for introduction of bills by individual senators.

But he said that while the bill has been introduced, rules prohibit further processing of it until he files a statement of intent concerning the measure.

He said the 5-man committee would study the proposal and explain it before his statement of intent is filed.

"Even though I have been home every weekend since the Legislature convened this measure never has been adequately discussed with me," he said. "I believe that all concerned will appreciate that a state senator should have some accurate data and general information on a measure before introducing it unless circumstances justify hasty action to beat the deadline . . ."

On the 5-man committee are Hastings Mayor Hans F. Thorne, chairman; Orville Hoagland, Hastings, chairman of the Adams County Board; Gilbert Carlson, Minden, chairman of the Kearney County Board; Ed Bittfield, former Kenesaw mayor, and Mayor Burdette Weedlun, Minden.

The bill seeks an increase in per capita distribution for first and second class cities. It proposes that the distribution be based on the 1960 federal census instead of the 1950 census.

The bill follows a formula proposed by Sidney City Manager Tom Coffey and adopted at a meeting in Lincoln by representatives of 17 Nebraska cities last week.

Milford School Seeks Advance Of $325,000

By Betty Person

The Legislature's Budget Committee Wednesday heard and held a bill which would allow the Nebraska Vocational Technical School at Milford to draw an advance of $325,000 from the state's institutional building fund.

Three other measures, largely bookkeeping bills — LBs 123, 149 and 237, were heard and advanced unanimously to the floor.

LB115, introduced by Sens. H. K. Diers of Gresham, Edwin T. McHugh of Murdock and Joe Vosoba of Wilber, asked that the Milford school be permitted the $325,000 advance in order to begin immediate construction of "badly needed" new buildings.

Sen. Diers explained that the request represented one-tenth of the total annual revenue raised by the special building fund levy and that transfer of the funds would mean slowing down building programs at other institutions by 5 weeks.

He contended, however, that the extreme needs of the Milford school justifier such action.

Save Repairs

Cecil Stanley, assistant commissioner in charge of vocational education, said allowing the school to start its building program now will eliminate the necessity of repairing buildings which must be razed when the new structures are completed.

He likened the $50,000 repair bill to "pouring money down a rat hole," and noted that several of the buildings have been condemned by the state fire marshal.

State Commissioner of Education F. B. Decker, Lowell A. Welsh, director of the Milford school, and Elton Berck, head of the Farmers Union, also appeared before the committee to support the request. No one appeared in opposition to the bill.

On the other measures heard and advanced by the committee:

LB123, introduced by Sen. Michael Russillo of Omaha, appropriates $3,736 out of the general fund to pay premiums on the official bonds for the state treasurer, his deputy and staff.

LB149, introduced by Sens. George Gerdes of Alliance and Vosoba, repeals a portion of a 1955 law which required the repayment of $36,800 out of concession sales at Fort Robinson.

LB237, introduced by the Budget Committee, removes the "not to exceed" clause from the expenditures of certain sums accruing to the Nebraska Military Department.

Judiciary Unit Kills One Bill

The Legislature's judiciary committee killed one bill by a 5-3 vote Wednesday and advanced two others to the floor of the Legislature.

Killed was LB76, relating to district court procedure.

The proposal dealt with the time for filing a written objection to the giving or the failure to give an instruction.

Advanced were LB78 and LB77.

LB78 provides that it shall be the duty of every attorney to act as the guardian of an incompetent defendant in the same manner as for infant defendants in any suit pending against him when appointed for that purpose by an order of the court.

LB77 amends several sections of the statutes dealing with fees in the office of the district court clerk in civil cases under the workmen's compensation law and employment security law.

Bill Calls For New Livestock Market Board

Supporters of a bill which would create a public livestock market board told the Legislature's agriculture committee Wednesday the proposal would upgrade the state's auction sale barns.

In its executive session the committee voted 6-2 to have the board include a swine producer, cattle feeder, cattle producer, an auction man, and the state director of agriculture.

The governor would appoint members.

The bill calling for creation of the board was introduced by Sens. George Gerdes, Alliance; H. K. Diers, Gresham, and Kenneth Bowen, Red Cloud.

Former State Sen. Dwain Williams, a Broken Bow sales barn operator, said there are "a few stinkers" among present operators and there are some not financially equipped to be in the business.

He also said there should be some method of keeping ambitious chambers of commerce from helping set up sale barns primarily for attracting people to their towns.

LB197 would make it unlawful for anyone to operate a sales barn without complying with provisions of the act. It also includes stipulations for market charters, hearings on applications, charter fees, transfer of charters, etc.

The committee unanimously advanced LB199, which provides for killing beavers doing damage to trees and property.

LB198 was held. It provides that the limitation of the acreage that a lessee may hold under school land lease shall not apply where the land to be rented is bounded on one side by lands owned or operated by the applicant or assignee.

Payments Balance Deficit Falls

Washington (AP) — Americans spent $3.8 billion more abroad last year than foreigners spent in this country — a balance of payments deficit $100 million below 1959, a ranking commerce department offical reported Wednesday.

Edward Gudeman, who is waiting to be sworn in as under secretary, revealed the figures, still not reported officially, in a talk at the mid-winter conference of the Advertising Federation of America.

He called on the advertising industry to support the government's campaign to increase exports as a means of shrinking further the payments deficit.

The deficit, which has caused an alarming drain on U.S. gold reserves, is to be the subject of a special message President Kennedy will send to Congress Monday. He may touch on it in his economic message to Capitol Hill Thursday.

$15 Billion Exports

Gudeman said the latest commerce department estimate of 1960 exports was $19.5 billion compared to imports of $15 billion.

The balance of payments deficit, which includes those figures, is the difference between what Americans spend, invest and give away abroad compared to the lesser amount received in this country from foreign sources.

The gold drain has been caused because as foreigners collect more dollars than they spend, they can choose between investing them in the United States or exchanging them for American gold. Last year, their gold purchases totaled $2 billion, driving down the U.S. gold reserve to $17.4 billion, the lowest since 1939.

In calling on advertisers to help the government promote an increase in U.S. exports, Gudeman suggested that they conduct market surveys in foreign countries — similar to ones in this country — to determine what products can be sold there and how the products can best be promoted.

Can Raise Export Total

Gudeman said although 1960 exports were greater by a big margin then imports, there is still plenty of room for increasing the exports total.

"Foreign trade has not kept pace with the dramatic growth of our economy," he said.

Gudeman was for years a merchandising expert for Sears Roebuck & Co. More recently he has been a partner in the New York investment banking firm of Lehman Brothers. His nomination as undersecretary has been confirmed by the Senate and he is waiting to be sworn in.

3 Indicted For Hijacking Beef

Omaha (AP)—A federal grand jury indicted 3 men in the alleged hijacking of a side of beef from a truck near Big Springs last week. The beef was part of an interstate shipment.

Indicted were Samuel A. Gill, 28, and Dewayne E. Arnold, 25, of Big Springs, and Leland L. Ulrich, 19, Julesburg, Colo. They are held under $2,000 bonds at North Platte.

Ham's Home...And He Looks Happy And Healthy

By Alton Blakeslee
Associated Press Science Writer

Cape Canaveral, Fla. (AP) — Ham's home, he looks healthy and happy, and is right back at work doing his bit to further man's dream of voyaging in space.

But the 37-pound chimpanzee faces nothing so spectacular and giddying as his 19-minute roller coaster ride into space Tuesday.

Instead, he's again pushing levers, to see if he's still as skilled as before, and to check his mental reaction with his performance on his ride.

That job was reported apparently quite well done, despite crushing forces of increased gravity before and after more than 6 minutes of freedom from gravity pull, when Ham felt he had no weight at all.

One concern has been whether men can think and react normally under such stresses.

Scuttles About

Peering about with lively, curious brown eyes, but uttering not a sound as he scuttled about in an aluminum cage, Ham arrived at 1:11 p.m. (EST) in a gentle touchdown of a C131 air force plane on a sun-bathed airstrip.

A bit more than 25 hours earlier, he had zoomed up from Cape Canaveral in a Redstone rocket, and bobbed around in the south Atlantic for 2½ hours before being picked up by a helicopter. Then he spent the night aboard a Navy ship, rode a helicopter to Grand Bahama Island for more medical checkups, nd took an hour's flight home.

Ham blazed the way for a human astronaut to attempt the same type of trip, perhaps this spring.

Later would come rides in more powerful rockets to send a chimp and then a man into orbits around the globe.

Mosely Pleased

But this was Ham's day, and the word was "all's well" from a highly pleased Maj. Dan Mosely, heading the medical team which trained and cares for him.

A couple of physical checkups and even X-rays disclosed "nothing to indicate any abnormality," Mosely said.

Ham is eating normally with a good appetite, keeping

'HAM'
. . . obviously pleased with things

a partiality for apples and bananas, and "while I won't say he's happy, he looks happy," Mosely added, explaining he can't read Ham's thoughts.

Trundled off in a white station wagon to his old quarters, Ham was to do a half hour workout slapping levers at precise timings to avoid getting slight electric shocks.

He'll get more such workouts for the next two days, as well as detailed physical checks, the veterinarian said.

Mosely disclosed Ham had been subjected to a force 16 times gravity — not 12 as first indicated by radioed data — a very heavy stress.

It came about because of a slight error in the rate of fuel consumption in the rocket, which touched off reactions carrying the rocket at a speed of 800 miles an hour faster than intended, and hurling Ham 155 miles high and 420 miles down range. This meant 40 miles greater height and 130 miles more distance than planned.

There is no official word yet whether this calls for another test with or without one of Ham's buddies before a man makes the daring trip.

Returning with him was the form-fitting protective couch in which he was strapped, while the one-ton capsule in which he rode was returned by a helicopter from the USS Donner which retrieved Ham from the ocean.

Dairymen Study How To Increase Income

By Glenn Kreuscher
Farm Editor

How to create a situation in which dairy farmers will receive incomes comparable with industry through a dairy marketing quota plan was studied Wednesday by an estimated 1,500 dairy producers attending the 29th annual meeting of the Nebraska-Iowa Non-Stock Co-op Milk Assn.

Some dairymen fear that as price increases are obtained for the dairy producer, an exceedingly heavy entry of new producers would depress milk prices on the farm.

To meet this problem, Dr. Verner Nielsen, chairman of the dairy department, Iowa State University reviewed a committee study (on which he served) to advise the National Milk Producers Federation (NMPF) of the possibilities to match supply with demand through a quota plan for producers.

The quota plan would involve marketing certificates or a milk quota based on previous production of dairy herds now selling milk, according to Nielsen.

Marketing certificates could be sold or transferred without restriction if dairymen wished to sell their right to individual quotas, he explained.

Milk produced and sold in line with quotas would receive the base price established for milk, while excess production would be subject to a lower price.

All Take Part

According to Nielsen, all producers who market milk would need to take part in the program. Producers who sold their bases would have no right to receive additional certificates unless they purchased quotas from another dairyman.

No new bases would be issued and the market for quotas would take care of distribution between producers, according to the committee study.

"The quota program for milk could not help but impede and interfere with significant changes in the dairy industry," said John C. Blum of Washington D.C., who represented the Agricultural Marketing Service of the USDA and pointed out disadvantages of the plan.

Efforts to accomodate new producers and the possibility of areas with higher milk prices purchasing quotas from lower priced areas would create additional problems, Blum said.

"Nearly 20% of the million farmers selling milk have less than 4 cows. How would you treat these small producers!" Blum asked.

Patrick Healy, of Washington D.C., assistant secretary of the NMPF, told dairymen there is no geographical or political limit to the area that milk can now move within the country.

"This is why the producer must now look to the national dairy outlook rather than to the limited scale of producing for just the local community," Healy said.

Hits Import Laws

Existing import regulations were termed "completely ridiculous" by Healy as he told how importers were now bypassing regulations to gain entry to United States markets.

"We have the most attractive dairy market in the world, and imports only add to the amount of milk that we have to support," said Healy.

Glenn Lake of North Branch, Mich., president of the NMPF, told dairy farmers their own cooperatives offered the greatest potential in the future of dairying.

"The dairyman is suffering from economic injustice, and something must be done about it," said Lake.

Processors Alright

While the dairy farmer's share of the consumer's dollar is shrinking to the lowest level since 1939, profits of national processors are at an all time high, Lake claimed.

"Bargaining strength isn't something that comes with a magic word — neither does it come from tough talk. It manifests itself from control of supply of the product and we should not be timid about new bargaining approaches," said Lake.

"Pricing milk strictly on manufacturing prices is as outmoded as the milking stool and we must start thinking about the dairyman producing FOR a market, rather than regardless of a market," said Lake.

Kansas City Bid Lowest On Oahe

Omaha (AP)—A bid of $645,190 by List and Clark Construction Co., Kansas City, was the apparent low one for final earthwork at Oahe Dam on the Missouri River, Army Engineers said.

Involved is removal of the 805,000 cubic-yard earth plug left to protect the construction area and riprapping the tailrace channel. Oahe is near Pierre, S.D.

RAIL COMMISSION'S LINCOLN HEARING SET FOR FEB. 9 AT STATEHOUSE

The Nebraska Railway Commission will hold hearings Feb. 9 in the Statehouse on applications for changes in service by the Capitol Telephone Co. of Hickman and the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. in compliance with a ruling by the State Supreme Court.

The Lincoln T. & T. wants to discontinue its service to Elmer Block, Merle Wilhelm and William Obermeyer, all residents living in the Martell exchange area of the Capitol Telephone Co.

The Capitol company is seeking to drop its service to the Roca Elevator Co. which is in the exchange area of the L. T. & T.

The supreme court recently overruled the commission's approval of these service switches on the grounds that proper notice was not given the persons using the service.

The hearings are intended to give all parties concerned proper notice.

In all 4 cases, the customers want to continue with their present phone company. Roca presently is served by both companies.

All the persons concerned live in Lancaster County.

The commission granted authority to Herman Brothers and other Nebraska motor carriers to publish point-to-point rates on liquid petroleum gas from the terminal near Greenwood to points in Nebraska.

The commission also granted authority to the Denver-Chicago Transport Co. Inc., Chester, to establish point-to-point rates on gasoline and fuel oil from new pipe line terminal near Lincoln.

The commission revoked the certificate of the Thunderbird Transportation Co., Inc., of Hiawatha, Kan.

Reason for the revocation was failure of the bus line to continue operations from Sept. 22 to Oct. 8 and from Nov. 1-15.

The bus line said reason for these failures to operate resulted from inability to get insurance in Nebraska for what it claims is a "reasonable rate."

The only intrastate route run by the bus line is from Falls City to Omaha including stops at Auburn, Nebraska City and Plattsmouth. The company also goes into Kansas and Missouri.

Other Commission Action:

—Granted taxi cab raet increase to city of Crete; new rate will jump from 35 cents to 50 cents within the city limits.

—Granted authority to Burlington Railroad to reduce train service on two combination passenger-freight trains from 6 days to 5 days per week between Lincoln and Columbus.

—Granted authority to Burlington Railroad to reduce train service between Ravenna and Grand Island and Palmer and Burwell.

—Granted authority to United Air Lines to increase its capital stock, the issuance of preferred and common stock and stock warrants in connection the proposed consolidation with Capital Airlines, Inc.

The commission overruled United's claim that the commission had no jurisdiction in the matter.

Wins Essay Contest

Plattsmouth — Marilyn Morris, Plattsmouth High School senior, has been named winner of the good citizen essay contest sponsored by the Fontenelle chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. She is now eligible to compete in the state contest.

Prompt Protest

London (AP) — Shortly after chimpanzee Ham was hurled aloft from Cape Canaveral, Fla., the youth section of Britain's Anti-Vivi-section Society fired off this telegram to the U.S. Embassy: "We wish to record our disgust at the action of the U.S. Government in sending a live chimpanzee into space."

Dawes PTA To Choose Beauty

Rehearsing carefully for their roles in the Dawes PTA "Hobo Fair", to be held Friday evening at the school, are these fathers who will compete in the program's "Miss Personality" contest.

A gala evening has been planned by the PTA for its annual Fun Night, which will begin with a snack supper of "hobo-burgers" at 6 o'clock, and will include a fashion show, a ballet, games and prizes.

Winter Bride

Miss Joan Belohlavy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Belohlavy of Wilber, became the bride of Milo Vlasin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vlasin of Crete, on Saturday, Jan. 14. The 10 o'clock morning ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. W. G. Beranek at St. Wenceslaus Church in Wilber.

Miss Mary Jean Sand of Lincoln, as the maid of honnor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Norma Jean Pelican, Wilber, and Miss Clariee Jean Schmidt, Lincoln, wore alike frocks of pastel blue chiffon over taffeta fashioned with full skirts. They carried bouquets of white, feathered carnations. Miss Mary Grabowski of North Platte, and Miss Cindy Forst, Denver, were the flower girls.

Serving his brother as best man was Ronald Vlasin, and the corps of ushers included Thomas Lisec, Ronnie Lorenz, John Vlasin, Jr., and Charles Keller, all of Crete.

The bride's princess gown was fashioned of white lace and tulle over taffeta. The long-sleeved bodice of lace was designed with a portrait-neckline, and insertions of the lace trimmed the extremely full skirt of tuile which was completed at the back by a bustle of lace and tulle. A tiara of pearls and sequins held her lace-edged veil of illusion, and she carried an arrangement of red roses.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to southern state, Mr. and Mrs. Vlasin will make their home in Lincoln at 2212 So. 33rd. The bride is a former student at National Business Institute.

PTA Meeting

Executive board members of Brownell PTA will meet Friday afternoon in the office of the school. The meeting will begin at 1:15 o'clock.

La Sertoma Club Entertains

Entertaining Wednesday evening at their annual Guys And Gals party were the members of La Sertoma, wives of Sertoma Club members, who were hostesses to their husbands at dinner.

Mrs. Ralph McGoogan and Mrs. John Capron were co-chairmen for the affair assisted by Mrs. Asa Waters, Mrs. A. G. Spohnheimer and Mrs. Ced Yoder.

The Retailer and You

On this, the fiftieth anniversary of the National Retail Merchants Association, it might be appropriate to give pause and consider just "What is a Retailer?" Webster defines the word as "the seller of commodities in small quantities." This means that any individual could easily be a retailer, but we all know that it isn't that simple. The history of our city and of our country is filled with stories of retailers who are no longer. It requires more than a stock of commodities and the desire to sell for a retailer to become successful. The most necessary ingredient of the successful retailer's formula is the customer. In this land we live in, where freedom of choice is the priceless heritage of all of us, two customers, both desiring to purchase the same commodity, can do so in different retail establishments. The choice exercised by the customer is influenced by his conception of the retailer patronized.

A retail store is more than a building stocked with goods and serviced by people. It lives and has character and personality as real as that of any human being. When a customer decides to buy at a particular store and says, "I'm going to Blank's to shop", he invokes within himself an image of the store . . . a picture of what that store means to him. The thought image we all carry within us of different retail establishments varies from individual to individual. This is good and necessary so that competition, which is the backbone of free enterprise, can continue and our democratic way of life be furthered.

We are proud of what Gold's of Nebraska has come to mean to the people of Lincoln and the surrounding trade area. This reputation was not easily come by. From the very inception of this store, the management has constantly worked to achieve this fine status. The leadership demonstrated, the efforts of the co-workers and their intense desire to mean what they say, have resulted in you our customer's knowing that, regardless of the situation, you are always right at Gold's. We are constantly striving to improve our services and to bring to you the new and improved. By so doing, we hope that your image of us is continually enhanced and that we will continue to be regarded in the same warm light we hold for your our customer.

It is only fitting that on this fiftieth anniversary of the National Retail Merchants Association we stop and rededicate ourselves to the ideals and principles that have made Gold's of Nebraska one of the great stores of our country. This we do and at the same time, give tribute to you, our customer, without whom the store could not be.

Bride At Chapel Ceremony

Azaleas, shading from pastel orchid and variegated tones of pink to American beauty, were arranged against a screen of magnolia boughs to form a background for the wedding of Miss Susan Ingerjorg Fraser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Avon Fraser, and Walter Herbert Nichols, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Herbert Nichols of Dardanelle, Ark., which took place Feb. 1, in the Chapel of Westminster Presbyterian Church. The 3 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Frederick A. Roblee, in the presence of only the members of the families and a small group of close friends.

Miss Ellen Basoco, as the maid of honor and only attendent, wore an afternoon frock of wool and satin in the azalea pink tone.

Also frocked in azalea pink were the candlelighters, Jennifer Jeter, niece of the bridegroom, and Susan Fitch, niece of the bride.

Walter H. Nichols served his son as best man.

Seating the guests were Rodney McGuire, of Dardanelle, Ark., nephew of the bridegroom, and William Avon Fraser, Jr.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of white taffeta in the princess mode. Accenting the Empire influence of the bodice, designed with a low, rounded neckline and long sleeves, was an oblique insertion of satin embroidered with pearls and opalescent beads that curved to below-waist back depth from where a voluminous panel extended into a cotillion train. A de Medici cap of silk illusion, caught with fresh azaleas, held in place her circular, shoulder-length veil, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and white azaleas.

MRS. WALTER HERBERT NICHOLS, JR.

The bride attended Grinnell College, Grinnell, Ia., and was graduated from the University of Iowa. Mr. Nichols also was graduated from the University of Iowa, where both now are working towards their Master's degrees.

Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Stump are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Susan, to Arthur E. Blackman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Blackman, on Wednesday, Feb. 1. Dr. C. Vin White read the lines of the 10 o'clock morning service in the chapel of First Presbyterian Church with only the members of the family and a small group of friends attending.

Miss Catherine Stump attended her sister as maid of honor, and serving his son as best man was Jay Blackman.

The couple will reside at 2500 J. Students at the University of Nebraska, the bride is a member of Alpha Phi, and Mr. Blackman is a member of Alpha Tau Omega.

Evening Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Dorthy Elizabeth Fetter of Lincoln, granddaughter of Mrs. Edith Doyen of Carson City, Nev., and George Stanley Handler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Handler of Hollywood, Calif., took place on Wednesday evening, Feb. 1, at Tifereth Israel Synagogue. In the presence of a small group of friends, Rabbi Abraham Rosenblum read the lines of the 6:15 o'clock service.

The maid of honor and bride's only attendant was Miss Gayle Ruttenberg of Chicago.

Ronald Schreiber of Kansas City, Mo., served Mr. Handler as best man.

The bride chose for her wedding a daytime ensemble in beige with matching accessories and a small beige and green hat. She completed her costume with a shoulder corsage of green and brown orchids.

A reception and wedding dinner was held at the Lincoln Hotel immediately following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Handler will reside in Lincoln. A graduate of the University of Oregon, Eugene, Ore., the bride is a graduate student at the University of Nebraska. Talcum Powder Set Popular In Suburbia

MEADOW LANE

This Thursday morning, the news concerning three new members of the diaper set in suburbia leads off the column.

Little Mari Jo Ellinger, daughter of Lt. and Mrs. Robert Ellinger, was born on Friday, Jan. 27, at Bryan Memorial Hospital. The young lady has two older sisters, Susan and Julie.

Mrs. Ellinger is the former Lois Fresenborg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fresenborg of Parkersburg, Ia. The paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ellinger, are also residents of Parkersburg. Mrs. Ellinger currently is in town visiting at her son's home.

The second new member of the talcum powder set is Susan Jean Malcolm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Malcolm, who made her debut at St. Elizabeth Hospital on Saturday, Jan. 28. The other members of the younger generation of the Malcolm family include Donald, Jerry, and Linda.

Mrs. Malcolm is the former Dorothy Splittgerber, daughter of Mrs. Paul Splittgerber of Wayne.

The final newcomer to the bassinet brigade whom we want to introduce this morning is John Milton Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Lewis, who was born on Thursday, Jan. 26, at St. Elizabeth Hospital. Among John's admirers are his brother, Clark, and his sisters, April and Susan.

The paternal grandmother is Mrs. Lee Kuhn. Mrs. Lewis is the former Opal Pimmer.

EASTBOROUGH

A look in the birthday book tells us that Pamela McDougall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McDougall, Jr., will be celebrating her seventh birthday anniversary Sunday. Guests at a family dinner at home that day will include Pamela's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Judd McDougall and Mr. and Mrs. William Utesch, all of LeMars, Ia.

And Monday afternoon Pamela has invited several of her contemporaries for a party at her home with the traditional cake and ice cream. Her guests will include Melinda Mellecker, Candy Meiner, Cheryl Wignall, Erin Tingle, Pamela Ponder, Carla Wall, and Julie Hovland.

To keep your address book up-to-date we will add that Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hickman and their children are now residing at 105 Arkansas Blvd. in Little Rock, Ark.

And in the address book we should note that Ted Muenster has moved from 6810 Vine to 811 So. 35th.

BSP Dinner

Xi Beta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will celebrate its 16th anniversary on Thursday at a Charter Day dinner to be held at 6:30 o'clock at the Kopper Kettle.

DAR Board

Executive board members and directors of St. Leger Cowley Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will meet for a noon luncheon on Saturday at Penners' Cafe.

Plans will be discussed for the annual Charter Day dinner to be held Tuesday, Feb. 7.

Dear Abby—

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a young neighbor who comes over almost every day. She keeps me from my work. She says I remind her of her mother, who recently passed away. She has a young child and is expecting another. I feel sorry for her.

There are many young neighbors near us, but she doesn't bother with them. How can I tell her not to come so often and stay so long?

OFF MY SCHEDULE

DEAR OFF: You can't—without discouraging her entirely. Be grateful that you are able to bring so much comfort to one so desperately in need of it. There are worse things than being kept from one's work, namely—finding yourself neither wanted, needed, nor essential to the happiness of another.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I am a piano teacher. I could make a better living doing something else, but I love music and want to teach others to love and appreciate it, too.

I have 22 students. Eight of them have been coming for their lessons week after week without having practiced one note. (How do they think they can fool a teacher?)

When I telephone their mothers, I am told, "Johnny had basketball practice every evening," or, "Susie has been busy with other activities."

I have threatened to drop these students unless they show more interest, but their parents plead with me to keep them. Should I drop them? My blood pressure is going up

MUSIC TEACHER

DEAR TEACHER: Drop them, and your blood pressure will probably drop, too.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: Recently an aunt of mine died. She was 56 years old and never married. The family wants to put "MISS" in front of her name on the stone.

I am sure she wouldn't want it that way. Don't you think just her first and last name is all that is necessary? Please answer in the paper because those people never believe a thing unless they see it in black and white.

SHIRTTAIL RELATIVE

DEAR SHIRTTAIL: Her first and last name only is proper.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: This might help the little lady who signed herself "TROUBLED CONSCIENCE:" Six years ago I was troubled because I found out my husband was lying to cover up for his buddy. But this didn't bother me half as much as when I found out his buddy was lying to cover up for him.

ALSO TROUBLED

☆ ☆ ☆

CONFIDENTIAL TO KANSAS BACHELOR: Making a marriage work is like running a farm. You have to start all over again every morning.

Opening lead — ace of spades.

To give away a trick and get back two in exchange is certainly a profitable business, but if the other fellow refuses to do business with you, it is hard to show a profit.

Here is a strange situation that arose in a rubber bridge game. West led the ace of spades after East had bid the suit, and East played the deuce, asking for a shift to another suit. It seemed unwise to play a club at this point, so West led a low heart and South won the queen with the ace.

Had the trumps been divided 2-1, South would have made the rest of the tricks. The nine of diamonds would have provided an entry to cash the A-K of clubs and discard two hearts, after which a spade finesse could be taken to produce twelve tricks.

But when South led the ace of diamonds and West showed out, making even eleven tricks became a problem. Declarer knew that he could continue with the eight of diamonds and give away a trick to the queen, thus creating an entry to dummy's nine, but he also knew, that East would be shrewd enough to refuse to win the eight.

East would be able to reason that declarer did not have a club, otherwise he would enter dummy with a club to take the marked trump finesse.

So declarer hit upon another scheme. He cashed the king of spades and continued with the jack. If East had taken the jack, he would have been unable to avoid hitting dummy into the lead with any return he made.

East realized from declarer's plays the situation that South was up against, and he therefore refused to win the jack of spades.

There was now only one chance left for declarer. He led the jack of diamonds in the hope that East would win it, but East rejected this trick also.

It was the end of the road for South. He had to lose two heart tricks and go down one.

Talk

—Since this is Valentine month it is proper and fitting that the members of the Terpsichorean Dancing Club should have a Valentine motif when they dine and dance on Saturday evening at Hotel Lincoln.

In charge of the party plans is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Moore, chairmen; Dr. and Mrs. Robert Chab, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parish, Mr. and Mrs. Don Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kudlacek. The group also will welcome a new member couple, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kuhn at the Saturday evening affair.

—One of the colorful events on next week's agenda is the presentation of the opera "The Sweetwater Affair", a rousing and fascinating musical drama of the cattle country for which, as a musical, we must thank Bruce Nicoll and Robert Beadell.

The opera opens on Wednesday evening, Feb. 8, and closes Saturday evening, Feb. 11. Curtain at 8 o'clock.

* * *

—But there is more. In the audience on Wednesday evening will be Julius Rudel, managing director of the New York City Opera Co., who is coming to Lincoln for the opening performance, and returns to New York on Thursday.

Complimenting Mr. Rudel, Mr. and Mrs. Beadell and Mr. and Mrs. Nicoll will be pre-opera dinner hosts and hostesses on Wednesday evening at the University Club.

Plan Merle Beattie Fun Night

That certain time of year has arrived again for PTA members in the city who seem to be spending every spare minute preparing for annual PTA Fun Night programs.

Planned as money-raising projects to aid and abet the Parent-Teacher gifts to the schools, the programs feature a variety of sale booths ranging from baked goods and candy to class pictures.

Jobless Insurance Overhaul Strongly Hinted

Washington (AP) — President Kennedy strongly hinted he will propose to Congress in the next couple of months a permanent overhaul of the unemployment insurance system. He probably will recommend setting minimum federal standards for idle payments and how long they will be paid.

In outlining this intention so far as the emergency situation is concerned, the President went on to tell his news conference that:

"Later in March we will send to Congress, or in April, proposals dealing with a more permanent improvement in unemployment compensation standards, duration and benefits.

Needs Not Met

"Because there isn't any doubt that based on our experience in 1958 and our experience this year, the unemployment compensation system has not met the needs of the country satisfactorily."

An administration proposal that Congress set federal benefit and duration standards would be a departure from governmental tradition and could be expected to stir up a real fight in Congress.

Up to now the states have set the amount of weekly benefits paid idled workers, together with the number of weeks such payments are to be made. Former President Eisenhower repeatedly urged states to legislate increases to keep step with higher living costs.

Kennedy's news conference comments indicated that he will eventually recommend federal standards on benefits and their duration. Congress presently fixes other standards for the unemployment insurance program and can legally fix benefit standards, too. Federal standards were recently recommended to Kennedy by a study group.

Payroll Tax Finances It

Under the federal-state program the financing comes from a federal payroll tax. At present most of the tax yield is rebated to the states for benefit spending as they chose, with a small amount retained for administrative costs.

One way which has been proposed to pay for emergency extra idle payments is to increase the base on which employers pay the present 3% payroll tax. The tax now applies on the first $3,000 earned by an employe. The labor department has proposed increasing the base to $4,800, the same base used for the separate Social Security program's tax.

Noting there are over 60 million workers with jobs while there are some 5½ million unemployed, Kennedy said he thought it is the function of the president to concern himself with the 5½ million unemployed—"especially when so many have been unemployed for so long a period of time."

Interest Rate Cut

A cut of 5½% in the maximum Federal Housing Administration interest rate — debated for months by the Eisenhower administration — was ordered by Kennedy.

FHA officials predicted the reduction of ¼ of 1% would bring a quick pickup in new home construction and help restore home building to its familiar role of leading the way to a business recovery.

Although the order, announced at the news conference, will affect only future FHA-insured home loans directly, government experts said the mortgage market generally should respond to the downward pressure.

A speedup in local public works construction may occur also, it was predicted. Kennedy has directed the Community Facilities Administration to reduce its interest charges on loans to cities and towns.

Such loans may be used to build sewer and water systems, city halls, libraries, fire and police stations and other public structures.

For Smaller Places

For some time, in practice, these loans have been granted only to communities of less than 10,000 population and have been restricted to water and sewage projects.

Under Kennedy's orders that eligibility requirements be broadened and interest rates lowered, it is expected that cities of up to 50,000 will become eligible for loans and that the funds will be available for a wider variety of projects.

Since early autumn the question of reducing FHA interest rates, as a means of jogging housing out of its prolonged slump, has been debated by government officials.

The Eisenhower administration several times was rumored to be ready to move, but each time deferred action. Kennedy issued the order on his 12th day in office.

Under a 5½% FHA rate, the home buyer actually will pay 6% because ½ of 1% is added for the insurance fee. At 5¾ he has been paying 6¼%.

Credit market conditions should be ripe for an FHA cut to have maximum effect, housing officials said.

Credit has been growing more plentiful for months, but interest rates have not fallen as they usually do in periods of ample credit.

Midwest Life Stockholders Okay Change

Stockholders of The Midwest Life Insurance Co. of Lincoln approved a change in the capital structure of the company at their annual meeting Wednesday, according to W. W. Putney, chairman of the board.

The capital account was increased 100% to $600,000 and the surplus was fixed at a like amount, thus increasing the capital and surplus from a million dollars to $1,200,000. In addition, the company had special reserves not required by law in excess of $800,000.

At the same meeting, stockholders approved a reduction in the par value of the company's stock from $100 to $10 per share, making a total of 60,000 shares of stock outstanding.

President A. Leicester Hyde and other officers reported on various departmental activities of the company which showed total paid life insurance production for the year of $30,623,761, an increase of 17%. The company closed the year with $146,674,836.64 of insurance in force, an increase of 10.47%.

Total assets amounted to $20,380,043.98, an increase of more than 8%. The investment income ratio for the year was 3.915. Terminations were slightly higher, as were death claims. Payments to policyholders amounted to more than $1,200,000.

The total income of the health department was $610,052, an increase of 8.39%.

From the present outlook, the year 1961 should prove equally as good as 1960, according to Putney.

Stockholders re-elected the following directors: W. W. Putney, Ernest L. Smith, Eleanor F. Snell and Snell W. Putney. Other directors are Adna A. Dobson, H. C. Henderson, A. Leicester Hyde, Clyde W. James, J. R. Kinder, E. W. Rowe, John K. Selleck, Vernon L. Thompson and O. D. Trombla.

Officers elected and appointed are:

W. W. Putney, chairman of the board; A. Leicester Hyde, president; Clyde W. James, evecutive vice president and secretary; H. C. Henderson, vice president and general counsel; Vernon L. Thompson, vice president—conservation; J. R. Kinder, financial vice president and treasurer; Eva M. Sorick, assistant treasurer and comptroller; Victor R. Seymour, assistant secretary and personnel officer; Lucile D. Williams, assistant secretary and manager policyowners service; Dale E. Scheer, assistant secretary and manager health insurance; A. Grant Reed, assistant secretary and chief underwriter; Wesley E. Hardin, director of agencies; Daniel N. Sherrick, agency supervisor; Robert N. Stone, agency supervisor; Glayds B. Peterson, agency secretary; Stuart A. Maseman, assistant comptroller; May E. Danielson, cashier; and Dr. E. B. Reed, medical consultant.

Denial Made That Khrush Attached 3 Conditions To U.S. Fliers' Release

Washington (AP) — Authoritative sources denied a published statement that Soviet Premier Khrushchev attached 3 conditions to his release of the two U.S. RB47 fliers last week.

The news magazine Time said Khrushchev's conditions were that there be simultaneous announcement of the release of the fliers, that the United States must ban U2 flights over Russia and the United States must not exploit the fliers' release for propaganda purposes.

Official informants in a position to know the background, but who asked not to be named, gave this account:

There was an agreement with the Soviets not to announce the fliers' release until the men were out of Russia. However, they described this as not a condition set by Khrushchev, but rather a matter of procedure which has been followed in other cases.

Discontinuance of the U2 flights had already been ordered by former President Eisenhower last May. The U.S. ambassador in Moscow, Llewellyn Thompson, reiterated this policy in his talk with Khrushchev preceding the fliers' release.

President Kennedy said last week continuance of this policy was not a condition for the release.

The informants said there was a mutual understanding by both countries that the release would not be handled in such a way as to inflame U.S.-Soviet relations. But here again they said the general understanding was not a condition set for the fliers' release.

White House Nixes Live TV At Next News Meet

Washington (AP) — The White House said Wednesday night President Kennedy's next news conference won't be carried live on television and radio, but that the live format "by no means" is being abandoned altogether.

"At the moment," said Press Secretary Pierre Salinger, "the plan is to depart from live broadcasting only for the next presidential conference.

Feeling Way

"We are still feeling our way in this whole field — we are still experimenting."

Kennedy's first two sessions with newsmen as President — the one Wednesday and the other a week ago — were carried live on nationwide TV and radio.

Salinger had announced that the networks were free to carry any and all of the conferences on that basis. He had said further that one of the networks, the American Broadcasting Company, had informed the White House that it planned to carry live all the Kennedy conferences through February.

Agreed

"We have asked ABC to withdraw these plans and the network has agreed," Salinger said.

The press secretary denied that the White House is departing from the live format because of concern it would add up to over-exposure of the President to the public.

"That's silly," Salinger said.

It is, he added, because the plan for the next news conference is to permit the TV networks to make video tape recordings of the entire session "and go on the air with it the minute the conference ends if they want to."

The White House reportedly hopes the effect of this will be that the networks in some cases will use the tape recording at hours when the audience will be considerably larger than if the conference were broadcast live at the announced news conference hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. EST.

"I would like to emphasize," Salinger said, "that we are by no means abandoning live TV and radio. In fact, the networks have been told that we plan to resume live broadcasts."

Not Pinned

While Salinger said the present plan is to depart from the live format for only the next conference, he added he did not want to be pinned down to any firm commitment on Kennedy's fourth session with newsmen.

"As I said, we are still experimenting," Salinger declared. "We want to sit back and take a good look at the whole situation."

The press secretary recalled that his original proposal to the networks was that they carry live an occasional presidential news conference at evening hours. He said the networks then asked whether the White House would authorize live broadcasting of any conference they might wich to carry. Kennedy and Salinger agreed but now have decided against this blanket policy.

False Identification Cards Reported Used To Buy Beer

Reports of falsified identification cards being used in Lincoln to obtain alcoholic beverages are under investigation.

Public Safety Director Emmett Junge said Wednesday that the matter has been discussed with Police Chief Joe Carroll and University of Nebraska police and administrative officials.

One set of false identification, now in possession of authorities, include a selective service card, driver license and birth certificate—all from Omaha.

Junge said information regarding these fake cards is being given to Lincoln beer and package-liquor outlets.

"The publicity should do much to curtail their use," he added.

Trouble Before

Chief Carroll said the falsified identification cards were of the same type with which police had had trouble several years ago.

But, he said, police haven't had much trouble with falsified cards recently.

Junge said the proposed state drivers license that would require a photo of the driver and tamper-proof laminations would help correct false identification problems.

How big the problem is is still uncertain, but Junge said city police are cooperaging with other authorities and law enforcement agencies on the matter.

Open House Marks USO's Anniversary

The USO public open house marking the group's 20th anniversary will be Saturday from 2 to 7 p.m. at the USO Building at 14th and P.

The center, started in World War II, has grown up through community interest and financial support, including contributions of junior volunteers.

Miss V. Louise Morris has been director of the center since last summer.

New House Rules Group Demos Describe Selves As 'Moderates'

Washington (AP) — The two Democrats selected for membership on the expanded House Rules Committee Wednesday described themselves as "moderates." Both supported President Kennedy in the 1960 campaign.

One of them, Rep. B. F. Sisk of California said he could not pledge himself to "vote pell mell" for every measure in whatever form the President might offer it to Congress.

"I will vote according to my own conscience," Sisk told a reporter.

Rep. Carl Elliott of Alabama, the other choice of the Democratic Committee on Committees, was emphatic in rejecting any "flaming liberal" tag. Classifying himself as a moderate, the 48-year-old small town lawyer and Bible class teacher added:

"You might say I'm a Southern liberal."

Picked by House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas for the Rules Committee assignment, Elliott is not expected to vote for any civil rights measures. To do so could amount to political suicide for an Alabama Congressman.

However, the Republican-Southern Democratic coalition which has dominated the committee on some social-economic issues in the past does not normally function against civil rights measures. The Republicans usually vote with Northern and Western Democrats on this issue.

On most major legislation in the last Congress, when Kennedy was a Senator, Elliott's voting record was about the same as the new President's. In last year's political campaign he made 203 speeches in support of the Kennedy-Johnson ticket.

Elliott's legislative interest is education. He was author of the 1958 defense education act and actively sponsored many other bills designed to promote education. He holds a citation from the American Vocational Association as "Champion of Education" and in 1959 was awarded the Parents magazine medal "for outstanding service to children."

Born on a farm near Vina, Ala., Elliott holds a law degree from the University of Alabama. He and wife, the former Jane Hamilton of Jasper, Ala., have 4 children.

The 50-year-old Sisk described his political philosophy as both "moderate" and "progressive."

He expressed general agreement with the basic program outlined by Kennedy, and said he believes the full Congress shauld have the right to consider it.

This amounted to a commitment not to use his vote in the Rules Committee to prevent key elements of the Kennedy program, once approved by the proper legislative committees, from coming to the House floor for action.

Sisk, born in Texas, moved to California's San Joaquin Valley in 1937 as a depression era migrant farm worker. Later he engaged in the food processing business and became sales manager for a tire distributor. He was elected to Congress in 1954.

Asked if he regarded himself as a "Kennedy man" or a "Rayburn man," Sisk said he saw little difference. House Speaker Rayburn is now a Kennedy man, he said.

JFK GRATEFUL TO THOSE WHO SENT REGARDS

Washington (AP) — President and Mrs. Kennedy want everyone who sent them congratulations to know they're grateful, but won't be able to reply directly to all the letters and telegrams they've received.

That applies, the President told his news conference Wednesday, to more than 100,000 persons who sent congratulations on Kennedy's election, his inaguguration, and the birth of John F. Kennedy Jr. last November.

"It is not going to be possible for us to acknowledge and answer as we would like to answer, each and every message," the President said.

"And therefore I wish to take this opportunity on behalf of Mrs. Kennedy and myself to thank everyone who has been so kind and generous."

Liquor Commission Denies Application

The Nebraska Liquor Commission Wednesday denied the application for a retail beer license of Charles W. Strong, Omaha.

The board of county commissioners of Douglas County had recommended denial of the application.

The commission also suspended 3 liquor licenses.

Following are licensees, address, reason for suspension, type of license, date of suspension:

—Robert E. Volf, Wood River; accepted merchandising credit exceeding 30 days and failure to file monthly credit report; retail package liquor license; Feb. 11-17; licensee plead guilty.

—Ray N. Jungers, Bellevue; selling beer and whiskey to a minor; retail class C liquor license; Feb. 15-23; licensee plead guilty.

—A. Q., Walter, Edward T. and Bernard Schimmel, Omaha; selling alcoholic liquor to a minor; retail Class C liquor license; March 25-29; licensees plead guilty.

The commission also granted Frank J. Pudelko of Gordon his motion to withdraw his application for a rehearing.

Pudelko has been charged with selling beer to a minor.

He filed a motion for rehearing on the order of suspension entered against him on Jan. 25.

On Jan. 30 he filed an application for withdrawal of the motion.

Traffic Jam

Denver (UPI) — The Police Department has announced it will have to begin holding more frequent sales of unclaimed, impounded automobiles because its auto pound lot no longer is able to hold those on hand. Authorities blamed Denver's increase in population over recent years as reason for the upswing in unclaimed vehicles.

Courteous Thief

San Francisco (UPI) — A bandit with the gallantry of Sir Walter Raleigh held up a candy store here. Manager Cecilia Ortega, 27, said the gunman spread a clean white uniform on the floor for her to sit on before he tied her up and escaped.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

In spite of a tendency to the quiet life, I find myself involved with unquiet youth.

Children have become very important to the national economy these New Frontier days. The amounts expended nationally by teen-age youth are reported with great respect by respectable periodicals, such as Advertising Age and the Wall Street Journal.

Everytime I speak harshly to my teen-age daughter, I have the uncomfortable feeling that I am chivvying a Big Spender. Possibly putting the knock on free enterprise.

☆ ☆ ☆

I do not recall that Big Business thought much of me when I was buying ju-ju beans.

No pollsters asked humbly for my opinion on the Rights of Man. Or if I preferred a breakfast food in brighter packages. (To match my brighter life.)

But things are different now, Claude. I am somewhat exasperated when sports car youth confides its plans for taking over the world. Exasperated, but fascinated.

☆ ☆ ☆

"In America when you speak of the American way of life, everybody thinks of chewing gum, Coca-Cola and Marilyn Monroe."

That is the opinion of the Russian youth magazine, Weekly Nedyela.

I would like to have a long heart-to-heart with the editor of this book. A meeting at the summit. Things are going pretty well between JFK and Khrushchev from what I read in the journals.

We should straighten out this American way of life thing right away.

For one thing, in our part of America we do not think of Marilyn Monroe. We think a good deal more of Bobby Darin and Sandra Dee.

We are not sure that he is Mr. Right for her—though we go WILD when he sings "Mack the Knife." We think if she will learn to cook—the fan magazines said she is buying a lot of cookbooks. We think then it will be all love-in-a-cottage.

I am sorry to report to Weekly Nedyela that Marilyn Monroe is not thought about so much. When we do think of her, it is vaguely as an Older Woman.

☆ ☆ ☆

We do think of chewing gum. We do think of Coca-Cola. But, bless your Russian hearts, we think more of a keen, little, second-hand Sprite. With straight pipes.

"One that wouldn't cost too much. And I could have it painted yellow, and pay you back out of my allowance."

A Sprite is a British car—our American way of life is mainly imported.

We think of our allowance more than chewing gum, Coca-Cola or Miss Monroe. And what we think of it is that it is inexhaustible. (Possibly that is why the economists look with such favor on inexhaustible youth. It exhausts me to think about it.)

* * *

I do not know where the editor of Weekly Nedyela is getting his information. But if I were the editor, I would get myself a new correspondent.

That man you have here is getting it off television. Watching old movies.

Kennedy Makes Clear Intention To Back Plans

Washington (AP) — President Kennedy made it clear Wednesday he will fight for his legislative proposals even though he conceded they may sharply divide the country and Congress.

Kennedy told his news conference that action by the House Tuesday in enlarging its rules committee means "that the House will have an opportunity to vote on all these bills."

"I do think that the House is closely divided on a good many matters which involve legislative proposals," the President said.

Have Vote

"Perhaps the country may be divided, too, but at least we will have a chance to have a vote and I consider that the most important thing.

"If the House then does not want to support our proposals, then at least I feel that the country has indicated its viewpoint, and not the judgmen of only a small number of representatives."

Kennedy went on to say that "we are going to have a close debate in both the House and the Senate on a good many matters, which has always been true."

Trouble

One issue on which he conceded there may be trouble ahead is the request for higher postal rates, made by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and endorsed by Kennedy Wednesday.

He said he will ask for the same new revenues, with perhaps a few minor revisions, that Eisenhower requested in his final budget message to Congress last month. Besides $843 million in postal rate increases, they include an additional one-half cent tax on gasoline and continuation of the present corporation tax rate and excise taxes on such things as cigarettes, liquor, beer, automobiles and telephone calls.

In reply to a question, Kennedy said he will ask Congress for all this revenue. He acknowledged it may not be realistic to expect Congress to approve, for example, the higher postal rates Eisenhower asked. Similar pleas by Eisenhower were rejected by previous Congresses.

Controversies

The President signalled his intention of battling for his program when he remarked that he recognizes that if his proposals are designed to do any good and if they provide for action "there are bound to be controversies about them."

Kennedy made it clear that if the budget submitted by Eisenhower for the year beginning July 1 is not balanced it will not be because of any programs submitted by the new President.

Sources

He said that with every new spending proposal he submits he will suggest a source of revenue to match it.

In his anti-recession message Thursday, Kennedy said, he will ask for emergency payments of unemployment compensation to jobless persons who have exhausted their benefits.

"Later in March," he said, "we will send to the Congress or in April — proposals dealing with a more permanent improvement in unemployment compensation standards, duration and benefits because there isn't any doubt that based on our experience in 1958 and our experience this year the unemployment compensation system has not met the needs of the country satisfactorily . . ."

Military Hails Lift Of Curbs By President

Frankfurt, Germany (AP)— President Kennedy's decision to life the curbs on overseas residence by service families came as good news Wednesday night for American soldiers in Germany.

Tens of thousands of troops were bivouacked in the fields preparing for their biggest winter maneuver starting at dawn Thursday near the Iron Curtain border in Bavaria. The news reached them in their tents on the 11 p.m. broadcast of the Armed Forces Radio Station.

"It sure will make the boys in the field feel good," said a Captain who asked not to be identified.

"I think it's much better this way. After all, the dependents have been sent over here to boost the morale of the troops," he added.

Germans hearing the news from the President's Washington news conference at this late hour also seemed to be cheered. Reducing the number of dependents—as had been planned by the Eisenhower administration—would have meant less business for storekeepers. Some Germans had feared the original travel limitations were just the first step to complete American withdrawal from Europe.

In Heidelberg, the U.S. Army's European headquarters, officials said the original directive had not yet had any practical effect on dependent travel.

The first drastic reduction was to have come this month. The number of new arrivals was to drop from 2,449 in January to only 280 in February.

Officials said it was not known whether the orders from President Kennedy would come in time to restore normal travel this month.

There are about 200,000 army dependents in Europe now, most of them living in West Germany. The Air Force has nearly 70,000 wives and children scattered all over Europe, of whom 28,000 live in Germany.

Woman Given Year Probation

Dorothy Foley, 40, of Lincoln was given an additional one-year probation by Judge Paul White after pleading nolo contendere (no contest) to a charge of violating terms of her probation.

She was placed on 2-year probation Sept. 14, 1959 for pleading guilty to charges of grand larceny involving the theft of more than $100 in money Aug. 8, 1959.

The additional one-year probation term will begin after the completion of her present probation which ends Sept. 14, 1961.

Morrison Plans 'Depth Program' In Road Safety

Governor Frank B. Morrison said Wednesday a traffic safety program "in depth" will be undertaken by his administration.

The governor ordered a committee of two to come up with recommendations for new safety measures as well as suggestions for the most effective means of coordinating the many agencies already dealing with this problem.

Given until mid-March to submit their report are James Stuart, Lincoln businessman and civic leader, and Mrs. Helen Greene, executive director of the governor's traffic safety committee.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. FIRST 1300 MADE IN DOUBLES

—KRAMER PREDICTS—

USLTA's Plan May Rile Pros

New York (AP) — If the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association attempts to take the professionals under its wing it may run into some opposition from the pros themselves, Jack Kramer said Wednesday.

"I feel certain the pros will want to keep some voice in their own affairs," the promoter added in commenting on the latest suggestion before the ruling body of the sport.

Ralph Westcott of Chicago, chairman of the USLTA research and planning committee, has proposed that the association drop the word "amateur" from its by-laws and become the ruling force of all tennis players, pro and amateur alike.

"Personally, I have no control on the players once they have fulfilled terms of our contracts," Kramer said, "but I am sure the boys are anxious to maintain their own association and to keep some say in tournaments other than the big open championships."

Kramer said it is his feeling that tennis would profit most from a setup similar to that existing in golf.

"Let the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association continue primarily as an amateur body but give it control over the open championsips, as they do in golf," the Los Angeles court impresario said. "In the case of all other tournaments, the pros should be permitted a chance to dictate terms and assist in the organization."

Kramer currently has most of the world's best tennis players under contract. They include Pancho Gonzales, Frank Sedgman, Lew Hoad, Ken Rosewall, Pancho Segura, Tony Trabert, Mal Anderson, Ashley Cooper, Andres Gimeno, Barry MacKay and Earl (Butch) Buchholz.

The promoter is touring the East in connection with his 6-man world series tour.

Possessing the main gate attractions, the pros will be able to make their own deals with the various associations once open tennis is approved, Kramer added.

Tennessee St. Tops UPI Poll For 8th Week

New York (UPI) — Tennessee State A&I which defeated a major college opponent and ran its winning streak to 18 games last week, topped the United Press International small college basketball ratings for the 8th straight week.

Tennessee A&I defeated St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., a major collge 64-53, last week and followed with victories over Gannon and Eastern Illinois.

The Tigers were the No. 1 choice of 31 of the 41 coaches who voted this week and had a first-place margin of 80 points over Mississippi Southern.

2 MEETS FOR NU SWIMMERS

University of Nebraska swimmers meet Iowa State here Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Kansas Saturday at 3 p.m.

Iowa State has an All-American in Paul Witherell, a free styler and medley relay performer. Bud Pierce, a sophomore backstroker, also is a top performer.

Best races of the meet could develop between Nebraska's fast-developing distance free styler Jay Groth and Iowa State's Art Patterson.

Nebraska won a surprise victory from Kansas in a dual at Lawrence recently, 58-47.

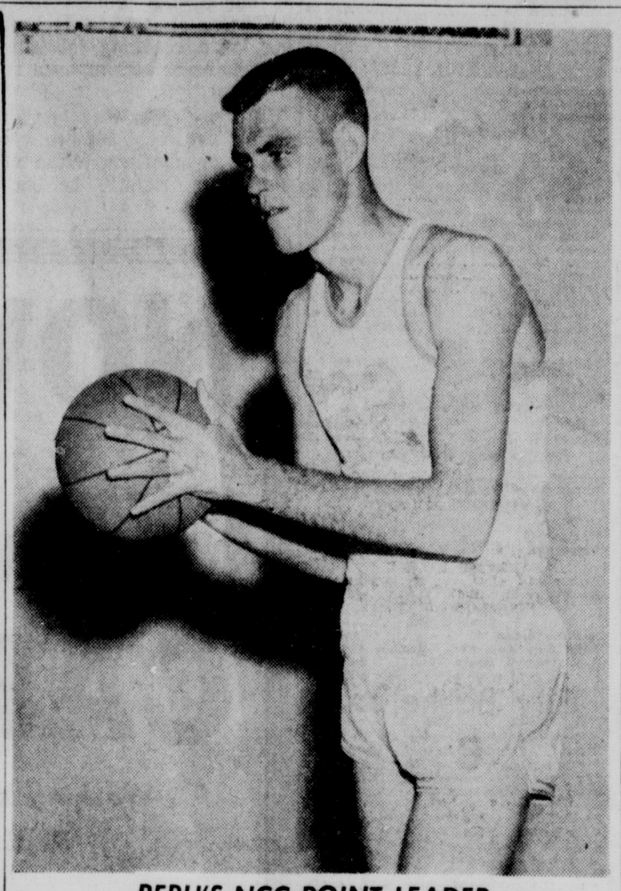
Caracas, Venezuela, (AP) — Kenney Lane of Muskegon, Mich., and Carlos Hernandez of Caracas will meet here Feb. 9 in a 10-round bout.



PERU'S NCC POINT LEADER

Bob Buettgenbach, 6-8 center for Peru's Nebraska College Conference basketball leaders, will lead the Bobcats against Doane tonight at Crete. Big Bitz is leading the NCC scoring race with 120 points, just 6 points ahead of Doane's Gene Velloff.

Men's City Bowling Action Gets Hotter

. . . NEW SCRATCH LEADERS TAKE OVER

By Bob McCoy

The Men's City Bowling Tournament got its first 1300 doubles score, a second 700 in singles and new scratch leaders in both as action turned hot at Northeast Lanes Wednesday night.

No changes occurred in the top 10 of the team event as the pin onslaught at Parkway Lanes slowed down.

Bill Harrington and Melvin Michael turned in a 1307 handicap at Northeast to capture the doubles lead, supplanting Ed Dosek and Vern Reed, who took over first place only Tuesday night.

Mike Murphy and Bob Morrison also passed the Dosek-Reed effort with a 1295 to land second place.

Hot 635

In singles, Jack Albert posted a hot 635 scratch and got 66 handicap pins to tie Don Kurtzer for first place at 701.

Kurtzer scored a 578-123—701 Sunday night, but since then men's singles have seen few changes.

Albert's 635 dropped Doug Hayes out of the scratch singles lead by two pins. Hayes still leads all-events with 1832.

Albert, who carries a 170 average in the Workers League at Bowl-Mor where he is loop secretary, started his big session with a 221 and followed with 192 and 222 efforts.

There were two other changes in the top 10 of singles. Owen Bolton shot 662 to tie Mark Stock for 6th and Bill Hugelman's 661 gained a tie for 8th with Melvin Hedberg.

In doubles, the hottest shooting hands were owned by city bowling secretary Bernie Kossek and podnah Bill Davidson.

This duo knocked over 1222 pins to take a huge lead in the scratch competition. But they got only a 39 handicap and wound up tied for 7th.

Harrington and Michael rolled 1118 scratch and got a 189 handicap in zooming over the 1300 barrier.

Harrington hit a 531 series and Michael 587 with an opening game of 252.

Murphy and Morrison, a couple of Lincoln Air Force Base keglers, shot 1142 scratch en route to their 1295. Murphy hit 604 to enhance his chances in all-events and Morrison 538.

Kossek's 667, coming on games of 201, 229 and 237, was the biggest total of the night. Davidson helped out with 555.

Easy Mark

Northeast was an easy mark for many bowlers Wednesday night although some didn't reach the top 10s. Out of 24 singles shooters on the final squad, 10 reached 600.

In the team department at Parkway, Kraal Club's brilliant 3279 of Tueday night still loomed big, as did the 2998 scratch by Robbie's Happy Corner.

Teams from the American Legion and Bowl-Mor Industrial leagues are given the best chance to make the top 10 in tonight's round.

KU Track Stars Are Ineligible

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Four University of Kansas varsity trackmen and basketball player Ralph Heyward are scholastically ineligible for the spring semester which begins Monday, the KU athletic department announced Wednesday.

The 4 trackmen are senior co-captains Darwin Ashbaugh of Ellis, Kan., and Paul Williams of Cleveland; sophomore 440 man Bob Martin of Mission, Kan.; and sophomore distance man Ted Riesinger of Catoosa, Okla.

Basketball coach Dick Harp said junior star Wayne Hightower, who had been reported in academic difficulty, had made the grade for the remainder of the season.

The 4 trackmen are ineligible for the 1961 indoor and outdoor seasons and their loss will greatly minimize Kansas' hopes of making a successful defense of its Big 8 outdoor title.

Neither scored, however, in the NCAA meet last spring as Kansas won the national title for the second year in a row.

Heyward, 6-4 Philadelphia sophomore, has been a top-level reserve on the KU basketball team.

Also in the Big 8, Oklahoma lost 4 members of its NCAA champion wrestling team

Grapplers taken were NCAA champion George Goodner, 191 pounds; David Campbell, 177 pounds; Tony Machias, 123 pounds and Gerald Whitfield, 130 pounds.

Lincoln Liberty Life Ties For Lead In B

. . . JOHN CARTER & SONS 2ND IN CLASS A

Lincoln Liberty Life No. 1 zoomed into a tie for the Class B leadership and John Carter & Sons challenged for the Class A top spot in Wednesday night features of the Women's City Bowling Tournament at Hollywood Bowl.

Lincoln Liberty rolled a handicap 2272 to tie The Blow Outs, a makeup team which had posted the same score Tuesday night.

John Carter & Sons shot the ladies' second high scratch series in the tourney and wound up second in the Class A list with 2692.

Bowl-Mor Lanes posted a remarkable 2751-105—2856 Monday night to all but sew up the Class A team championship.

Scratch Stands

In Class B, the scratch of 2083 by The Blow Outs stood up despite the challenge by Lincoln Liberty Life.

Edith Stewart 433, Delma Leffler 363, Janis Smith 343, Deana Casper 403 and Marge Cheuvront 403 made up the LLL club which had a scratch 1945 and got 32 pins for its 2272.

Jo McVay shot 568, Joyce Mills 533, LaVerne Cerny 446, June Roy 84 and Phyllis Hedberg 505 for John Carter & Sons in Class A.

The 533 by Mrs. Mills put her into 4th in all-events, just one pin behind scratch leader Rosemary Murphy, who has 1547.

There were 3 changes in both team events Wednesday night.

Trust Building took 6th and Security Mutual No. 1 7th in Class B while Ren's Hens tied for 6th and King's Fine Foods took the No. 10 peg in Class A.

Recheck

A Class B recheck placed Little Jets 20 pins back and into 8th. The team had been 5th Tuesday night.

Among the unusual, Marie Meisinger turned in the 3rd all-spare game of the tourney when she opened her round with King's on a 185. Marge Vosta had hit 183 and Roberta Myers 175 earlier, all on spares.

The tourney resumes singles and doubles shooting this weekend, where Ruth Vaughan's 600 and an 1149 by Betty Heckman and Madeline Sundling lead.

A novice wrestling tournament is scheduled for Mar. 17-18 at the Pentzer Park Center.

The tourney, open to boys in the 8th grade and under, will be sponsored by the City Recreation Dept., and Pentzer Park.

University of Nebraska mat coach Mickey Sparano is meet director.

Registration and weigh-ins are slated for Mar. 11 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. A demonstration clinic is set for Feb. 25 at 3 p.m.

Series Homer Is Top Thrill

. . . MAZEROSKI CLOUT ELECTED

Pittsburgh (AP)—Bill Mazeroski of the Pittsburgh Pirates calls his home run that won the 7th game of the 1960 World Series "the greatest thrill of my life."

Sports writers and broadcasters Wednesday selected the climactic clout, which defeated the New York Yankees and brought the world's championship to Pittsburgh, as the sports thrill of the year in the annual Associated Press poll.

Participants in the poll cast 77 votes for the home run. The final World Series game, including a series of exciting events which preceded Maz's clincher received 26 votes for second place. Third spot went to Floyd Patterson's 5th round knockout of Ingemar Johansson to regain the world's heavyweight title. It garnered 13 ballots.

Mazeroski, asked to give his reaction to the home run, replied, "I can't explain how excited I was about it." The impact the event had on other people can be seen by the comfortable margin given to it in the voting.

With the score tied at 9-9 in the 9th inning in the 7th and final game of the Series, Mazeroski picked out Ralph Terry's pitch and slammed it over the left field wall.

The crowd of 36,683 fans at Forbes Field, stunned for a moment, broke out with noise that sounded like a volcano erupting.

If Mazeroski hadn't hit the home run, he still would have experienced his greatest personal thrill in 1960. The slick fielding second baseman said his second greatest thrill was "just being in the Series."

He said he feels great and is ready to return to the baseball wars. "The upcoming season looks good," he said.

However, he declined to predict what the baseball fortunes of the Pirates or himself will be, saying, "predicting always has been a bad business for me."

Other performances receiving votes for the thrill of the year were:

The professional football game between the Detroit Lions and Baltimore Colts; the 1960 Olympics and 3 individual performances in the Summer Games; the U.S. Olympic hockey team's victory over Russia; and Arnold Palmer's sensational final-round play to win the Masters and U.S. Open golf tournaments.

KEEPING SCORE

With Al Beebe

Star Sports Staff Writer

No Record For Defense

Coach Gilbert Swanson, when he reported his Huntley team's 62-11 win over Bloomington, asked whether that might be a record for defense.

Sorry. Not only is it nowhere near a record, it's not even the low score for the year.

Greeley, with only 8 boys in school, scored only 6 points while losing 43-6 to Ericson. Greeley also lost, 28-8, to Bartlett. I believe that's the low for the year.

I'm sure even the 6 points doesn't approach a record, since such scores were fairly common in the days of low-scoring games.

Lowest score I ever heard was while I was in New Mexico, about 10 years or so ago. That was a 2-0 thriller.

No Lincoln Champs, But . . .

Lincoln isn't too likely to produce a state champion this year, although Lincoln Northeast is certainly among several contenders. And University High is moving up in the Class B ranks.

Neither, however, rates as a favorite or even a hot choice for second currently.

Nevertheless, Capital City teams boast 4 strong candidates for all-state honors.

NE's Earl Wright, Lincoln High's Gary Haas and Lincoln Southeast's Jack Cramer are good posibilities for a Class A spot. Uni's Charles Hellerich could nab a B position.

There seems to be fewer than usual really strong candidates for all-state in Nebraska this year, although there are plenty of good basketball players.

I recall seeing only two players billed as "sure-fire all-state." Both are in Class B, and both were boosted by newspapers in opposition towns.

They are Tony Schneider of No. 1 York and Larry Bornschlegl of No. 2 Geneva.

No One-Man Teams

Most of the better teams in the state seem to feature balanced attacks, and don't rely on a single sensational star.

Even Geneva has at least one other standout in Bob Higel, and York's scoring has been balanced, with Schneider often giving way for top honors to teammates.

Such teams as Omaha South, Omaha Benson, Fremont, Grand Island, Kearney, all rely on at least 3 or 4 good performers, rather than one star. So does Northeast, although Wright generally tops the scoring.

Big problem at LHS and SE is getting enough consistent help for Haas and Cramer. The Links and Knights have generally won when the aid was forthcoming. Boys such as Haas or Cramer might lead a Class D team to state title, but it's virtually impossible in A.

Scottsbluff is finding the same thing to be true out west. The Bearcats have the Big 10's leading scorer in Jim Walter, but boast only a 4-7 record.

Last year about this time, I could list 8 or 9 players, from which the all-state team would almost certainly emerge. That isn't possible this year. It's going to be a tough job this year.

Six Score 65s To Lead Desert

. . . MIDDLECOFF AMONG THEM

Palm Springs, Calif. (AP) — Six golfers, including a youngster who barely missed a $50,000 hole-in-one bonus, shot 65s Wednesday and split the lead in the first round of the 90-hole Desert Classic.

Dave Marr, 27, of Houston almost scored an ace when his ball ran directly over the 16th hole at Thunderbird Country Club and rolled about two feet beyond. His 65 was still good enough to put him in a first place tie with Ken Venturi, Dow Finsterwald, Bob Rosburg, Cary Middlecoff and Charlie Sifford.

Bob Shields, Don Whitt and Jay Hebert were tied at 66. Henry William Jr., Art Wall Jr., Gardner Dickinson and Fred Hawkins had 67s. Defending champion Arnold Palmer shot a 69.

The top finishers in this 5-day event will split about $50,000. The sponsors have another check in that amount ready for any pro who scores a hole in one.

Joe Campbell of Henderson, Ind., did it last year.

Marr, a cousin of Jack Burke played on a par-71 layout at Thunder-Bird—one of 4 courses being used during the early rounds.

Sifford also played at Thunderbird and the other 4 leaders were on par-72 layouts.

Of the many fine rounds, Middlecoff's was perhaps the most remarkable. The golfing dentist from Memphis, Tenn., has come upon troubled times lately, winning only $25 in 3 tournaments this winter.

Wednesday he missed only one green, needed only 28 putts.

"Back in June," he said, "I had some metatarsal bars put in my shoes to help correct a back condition. They were helping my back but hurting my golf.

"Three days ago, I took them out. I had to run the risk of hurting my back to get my game back."

Marr, who had no success earlier this winter, shot 7 birdies and took only one bogey. Rosburg, who won the recent Bing Crosby Open, scored an eagle 3 on the 256-yard 5th hole at Indian Wells. He also picked up 7 birdies.

Sifford, the Negro champion, got an eagle 3 on the 525-yard 7th hole at Thunderbird.

Venturi, who earned more than $41,000 last year and finished second among the game's leading money winners, also got an eagle 3 at Indian Wells, on the 507-yard 14th hole.

Mike Souchak was disqualified for signing an incorrect card after checking in with a 1-over-par 73 at Bermuda Dunes.

Husker-OSU Indoor Records In Jeopardy

Meet Marks

Pole vault: Aubrey Dooley (OC) 14-7¼—1960.

Shot put: Al Wellman (N) 50-1¼—1960.

High jump: Sammy Pegues (OS) 6-3—1959.

Broad jump: Bob Knaub (N) 23-1½—1959.

Mile run: Joe Mullins (N) 4:17.4—1959.

60-yard dash: Orlando Hazley (OS) :06.4—1959.

440-yard run: Tom Harlan (OS) :50.7—1960.

60-yard high hurdles: Terry Covert (OS) Milt Haedt (N) :07.7—1960.

2-mile run: Miles Eisenman (OS) 9:28.5—1959.

880-yard run: Bill Stone (OS) 1:56.1—1960.

60-yard low hurdes—Bob Knaub (N) :07.1—1959.

Mile relay: Oklahoma State (Hazley, Harlan, Burch, K. Covert) 3:30.0—1960.

600-yard run: Joe Mullins (N) 1:13.0—1960.

1000-yard run: Joe Mullins (N) 2:16.9—1959.

Several meet records should be doomed when Oklahoma State comes here Saturday to open the indoor track season with Nebraska. The meet starts at 2 p.m., with the running events at 2:30.

Five record holders will be in action. Al Wellman, Nebraska shot putter, holds the present mark at 50-1¼. He has been over 52 feet consistently this season.

Bob Knaub, broad jump and low hurdles king of the hill in this meet along with Milt Haedt, who shares the 60-yard high hurdle crown with Terry Covert, Oklahoma State, will all be in action.

Sammy Pegues, Oklahoma State high jumper who holds the record of 6-3, also will be competing. Fred Wilke, Cornhusker sophomore, has done 6-3¾ to set an intramural record this winter, will provide opposition in this event.

Oklahoma State will present a sophomore vaulter in George Davies who has been consistently clearing 15 feet in practice. His top mark has been 15-5¾. He should wipe away Aubrey Dooley's mark of 14-7¼ set here a year ago.

Nebraska edged the Cowboys a year ago by a 66-56 margin.

—COMEDIAN DRAWS BIGGEST GALLERY—

Hope Golfs—Fans Love It

Palm Springs, Calif. (AP)—The $50,000 Palm Springs Golf Classic started Wednesday with amateur Bob Hope drawing a bigger gallery than any of the 128 professionals.

Hope even outdrew his old pal, Bing Crosby, also among the 384 amateurs playing.

Hope collapsed the last time he played in a major tournament—last month's Los Angeles Open—but he's taking no chances this time.

"I'm riding in a cart with a nurse and oxygen and my psychiatrist as a caddy," rapid Robert kiddingly told a newsman.

On Indian Wells' 10th hole, Hope smacked a beautiful 250-yard drive straight down the middle. A gallery of 300 gave him a solid round of applause.

Then someone yelled: "You're better than Bing, Bob."

Only minutes before, Crosby hooked his drive slightly for about 210 yards.

Hope, who suffered a serious blood clot in his left eye in 1959 and some dizzy spells since, played hatless in the 80-degree desert sun.

He said he would not play the 4-day 72-hole trek as other amateurs are doing.

"I've got to catch a plane this afternoon for San Francisco," he said. The comedian is playing a benefit there Wednesday night.

Yanks Move To Crack Segregation Barriers

New York (AP) — The New York Yankees moved Wednesday to crack the segregation barrier at their St. Petersburg, Fla., baseball training camp and put all their players "under one roof."

"Howard, Lopez and Gonder mean as much to our ball club as any other ball players," said Dan Topping, Yankee president, in a formal statement, "and we would like very much to have the whole team under one roof."

The references were to the Negro players on the New York roster—catcher Elston Howard, outfielder Hector Lopez and rookie catcher Jesse Gonder.

Topping's statement came after a leading St. Petersburg Negro, Dr. Ralph Wimbish, had urged the Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals to help end segregation in hotels and restaurants in the Florida City.

Wimbish, chapter president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said "it is time the management of the clubs takes a hand in bringing an end to discrimination against Negro players."

In St. Louis, Bing Devine, the Cards' general manager, said, "We have a problem there. We recognize that it is highly desirable for all players to stay together, but we don't make the rules and regulations for the various localities."

Many Negro major league players are reported to be unhappy over conditions in Florida where they are barred from certain hotels and restaurants.

Last season, all but 4 teams in the National and American Leagues — the San Francisco Giants, Cleveland Indians, Chicago Cubs and Boston Red Sox—trained in Florida. The others do their preliminary warmups in Arizona.

Bob Fishel, the Yankees' publicity director, said efforts were being made to see that all Yankee players so desiring be permitted to stay in the team's hotel.

Howard was quoted by Milton Gross, columnist of the New York Post, as saying:

"I want to bring my family to training, just as the other Yankees, but I can't make plans until I get down there and see what kind of house I can rent. The other players can rent them from an agent in advance, but I can't. It's not pleasant."

Bill Veeck, president of the Chicago White Sox, is one of the pioneers in the movement to break the baseball color line in the spring sites, Gross said.

He has insisted that all his players, white and colored, be permitted to stay at the same hotel. A similar demand is said to have been made by the Orioles, who shifted from the west to Miami last year.

NU Grapplers, S.D. Staters Battle Friday

Two Nebraska wrestlers — Jim Faimon and Mike Nissen —will be attempting to extend their unbeaten records in dual competition when the Huskers host South Dakota State at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Faimon has a 3-0 mark in duals and has only one loss for the season. The loss came in the Iowa State Teachers College invitational tourney.

Nissen owns a 2-0 record in duals and is also undefeated in all competition.

Nissen was kept out of action by an ankle injury suffered Dec. 18 but has been pronounced ready for action again.

The match will be held at the PE building because of graduation ceremonies being held at the Coliseum.

KNIGHTS END 3RD PERFECT SEASON

. . . Tankers Whip LHS; Links Lose Bauers

Lincoln Southeast completed a 3rd straight undefeated season in Nebraska dual swimming meet competition Wednesday by trouncing Lincoln High 55-31 at the Southeast pool.

Southeast swimmers won every individual event, leaving Lincoln High only the relays.

LHS swam without backstroke star Ron Bauers, who was injured in a toboggan accident last weekend. Bauers, favored to capture the state backstroke title, suffered a bruised kidney and may be out of action the rest of the season.

Southeast had no double winners in Wednesday's meet, although John Taylor had a first and second and Dick Frank a first and 3rd.

SE's sophomore sprint star John Moreland had the best time, an :18.8 clocking in the 40-yard freestyle.

Summaries:

40-yard freestyle—1, John Moreland (SE); 2, Bill Folsom (SE); 3, Willis Leyden (LHS). T—:18.8.

DRAKE EDGES IOWA ST. ON DESPERATION SHOT

Des Moines (AP) — Gus Guydon whistled a 30-foot jump shot through the net at the final gun to give Drake an 83-81 non-conference basketball victory over longtime rival Iowa State Wednesday night.

The triumph snapped a 5-game losing streak for the Bulldogs and avenged a 1-point loss to Iowa State earlier in the season.

Although it was Guydon's desperation toss which capped the Drake comeback, playmaker Jerry Foster was the key man for the Bulldogs. He scored 31 points — including 18 in the second half.

Big Henry Whitney was the Cyclone workhorse scoring 28 points.

The victory was Drake's 11th in 17 games. Iowa State now has an 8-9 mark.

LATE COWBOY FLURRY HITS MIZZOU, 61-55

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — A flurry of field goals in the last 7 minutes of play Wednesday night gave Oklahoma State University a 61-55 Big 8 Conference basketball victory over the University of Missouri.

The OSU Cowboys were behind at only one point — 6-5 early in the first half — but Missouri was close on their heels until the Cowboy break-through in the last 7 minutes. OSU led by only 28-26 at the half.

With 14 minutes left in the game the score was tied 36-36.

A few minutes later, the Cowboys broke through with Moe Iba leading the stretch drive with 4 field goals in the final 7 minutes.

Leading scorer was Missouri's Charles Henke with 23 points, followed by OSU's Eddie Bunch with 21.

The victory was OSU's second in the conference this year compared with 4 losses. Missouri has won two and lost 3.

RETIRED FRISCO COACH WANTS JOB

San Francisco (AP) — Phil Woolpert, coach of two national championship basketball teams at the University of San Francisco and respected as one of the game's finest defensive strategists, is looking for a coaching job after 14 months of self-imposed retirement.

"I'd prefer to stay in California, naturally, but I'm willing to go anywhere if the situation is right," he said Wednesday.

In November 1959, just before USF's Dons were to open their season, Woolpert resigned as head coach and athletic director.

A back injury he suffered in the Philippines had failed to heal and he was in almost constant pain and nervous. A few months after leaving USF, Woolpert took a job as executive with a vending machine company.

But Wednesday he said, "I've come to the realization that I'm cut out to work with people rather than things — and specifically with young people. I've been missing the relationships that I formed over a lifetime in basketball.

Cardinals Need Good Pitching Start

...Hemus Sees Stronger Run For Pennant

(Fourth in a series of major league team prospects written under the managers' own bylines)

By Solly Hemus
St. Louis Cardinals

Houston, Tex. (AP) — My chief aim right now is to get the pitching staff in shape for a good start once the season gets under way. If we do that, I think the Cardinals will make a stronger run for the pennant than last year when we finished 3rd.

Start Poorly

Some of our pitchers started off poorly in 1960. In addition, Bob Miller had to undergo an operation and was lost for almost the whole season. This was one of the big reasons why the St. Louis club remained in the second division for almost the first 3 months.

We were fortunate in signing Curt Simmons and bringup Ray Sadecki from the minors. They'll be back again and together with Ernie Broglio, Larry Jackson, Al Cicotte and Lindy McDaniel give us a pitching staff with plenty of depth. Cicotte, one of the best pitchers in the minors last year, should help considerably.

I also feel that we will have more hitting. Don Landrum, who came to us from the International League late in the year, showed flashes of being a fine leadoff man and an excellent defensive outfielder. In fact, we have a wealth of talent in the outfield with Stan Musial, Walt Moryn, Bob Niman, Joe Cunningham, young Charley James and Curt Flood.

Stan Still Good

Musial still has lots of good baseball in him. Of course, he will have to rest once in a while but as you can see we have plenty of adequate replacements.

The infield looks set with Bill White at first, Julian Javier at second, Daryl Spencer at short and Ken Boyer at third.

Hal Smith will handle the catching. He'll be backed up by Carl Sawatski and one of two rookies, Chris Cannizzarro or Tim McCarver.

We could use another relief man to help Lindy McDaniel, who is the best in the game, and maybe another long ball hitter. But overall I believe our pennant chances are better than they were a year ago.

The team to beat in the National League is Pittsburgh. The Pirates definitely helped their club by getting Bobby Shantz from the Yanks.

San Francisco (AP)— The San Francisco Giants announced the signing of two pitchers who distinguished themselves as reliefers in minor league baseball last season. They are Ray Daviault and Sherman Jones.

MUNFORD, SEMIN LEADING WESLEYAN SCORING RACE

Jim Munford and Dennis Semin are leading Nebraska Wesleyan's basketball team with 16.4 and 15.3 averages, respectively.

Munford, a junior, has tossed in 213 points in 13 games, and Semin, a senior, 198 points.

Semin is the team's rebound leader. He also leads in free throws with 86.

Wesleyan trails its opponents in total scoring, 317-283.

Eichmann Formally Charged By Israel

. . . 15 CRIMES ALLEGED

Jerusalem, Israeli Sector (UPI) — Adolf Eichmann, accused Nazi mass murderer, was formally charged by Israel Wednesday night with participation in the wiping out of the Czech village of Lidice in World War II and with 14 other counts of alleged crimes against humanity and the Jewish people.

The indictment of the jailed former SS colonel, who has been accused of responsibility for the deaths of 6 million Jews, further charged that he belonged to "hostile Nazi organizations."

West German Attorney Robert Servatius of Cologne, appointed as Eichmann's defense counsel, received a copy of the formal charges from Israeli Attorney General Gideon Hausner to start the legal processes which will culminate in Eichmann's trial for his life. Hausner said he asked the Jerusalem district court to open the trial March 15.

The bill of particulars was printed in Hebrew with an English translation. Details were made public with Servatius' permission.

It was the first time any specific charges have been placed against Eichmann, 54, since Israeli intelligence agents seized him in Buenos Aires, Argentina, almost a year ago and smuggled him to Israel as the alleged executioner of 6 million Jews during Hitler's regime.

Although Argentina protested against the seizure of the refugee Nazi, who had been living under an assumed identity with his wife and two children, Israel insisted it had the legal and moral right to hold him for trial.

The charge sheets said among his crimes against humanity were:

—He and others caused the deportation of more than 500,000 Polish civilians with the intention of settling Germans in their homes.

—In 1942 Eichmann and others caused the deportation of 100 children and adult civilians from the Czech village of Lidice to Poland and their slaughter. This allegedly was undertaken as part of Eichmann's functions for the gestapo.

(Lidice was wiped out in retaliation for the killing of a German officer and became a silent monument to Nazi brutality.)

—Eichmann caused the deportation of 14,000 Slovenes from Yugoslavia to give their homes and land to Germans.

—He put gypsies in concentration camps to murder them.

Separate charges of crimes against the Jewish people included the charge that he was responsible for implementing the Nazi "final solution to the Jewish problem" — by wiping them out.

MORTIMER M. CAPLIN

Simpler Tax Forms Possible

Washington (UPI) — The nation's prospective tax chief revealed Wednesday that he has started trying to simplify income tax forms to make them easier to understand and maybe a little "more palatable."

Mortimer M. Caplin, University of Virginia tax expert, made the disclosure as the Senate Finance Committee approved his nomination as commissioner of internal revenue.

He told the committee he already had conferred with his aides on income tax forms and accompanying instructions with a view to working out "something more palatable and understandable." He said the government should help taxpayers as much as it can.

Caplin also testified that the Internal Revenue Commission should step-up its audits of tax returns without giving taxpayers what Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., described as higher blood pressure.

Caplin also testified that "as a citizen" he is in favor of cutting the present 27-½% depletion allowance granted oil interests. But he said his job will be to collect taxes, not levy them.

Katie Louchheim Given State Dept. Consultant Post

Washington (AP)—Mrs. Katie Louchheim Wednesday was named to a $15,255 a year job as consultant to the State Department on problems involving the participation of women in international educational and cultural affairs.

Mrs. Louchheim, a Washington resident, served until last year as director of women's activities for the Democratic National Committee and as a committee member from the District of Columbia.

The announcement by the State Department press office said she also will be concerned with "the role of United States organizations in facilitating the department's public affairs program."

That apparently meant that she will seek support among women's organizations for U.S. foreign policy.

Decent Literature Group Organized

Omaha (AP) — Organization of a citizens for decent literature committee with Rep. Glenn Cunningham, R-Neb., as general chairman, was announced Wednesday.

Two 'Kennedy Men' Are Appointed To Rules Unit

Washington (AP)—Two Democrats who have a record of voting for most types of legislation that President Kennedy favors were tapped Wednesday for membership on the House Rules Committee.

They are Reps. Carl Elliott of Alabama and B. F. Sisk of California.

They would fill two of the 3 new posts created in the key committee under a resolution approved by a narrow 217-212 House vote Tuesday.

The Republicans will fill the third place.

Administration forces hope that by enlarging the committee to 15 members, in place of the previous 12, they will be able to command an 8-7 majority on most issues.

Some Measures Blocked

Heretofore the committee has often been dominated by a Republican-Southern Democratic coalition that has delayed or blocked some major social-economic measures.

The Rules Committee determines what bills approved by other committees will go to the House floor for action, and in what order.

Sisk expressed general agreement with the basic program outlined by Kennedy, but said he could not pledge himself "to vote pell mell" for every measure in whatever form it might be presented to Congress.

"I will vote according to my own conscience," Sisk told a reporter.

Matter Of Fairness

He said, however, that regardless of his own feelings he believes the full Congress should have the right to consider the Kennedy legislative program.

While Elliott in the past has backed many of the measures the Kennedy administration is expected to advocate, as an Alabaman he likely would oppose civil rights legislation which the White House might propose.

Republican leaders indicated they would not complete their committee assignments until next week, and perhaps even later.

Crash Kills Murray Man

Plattsmouth, Neb. (UPI)—A. W. Leonard, 78, Murray, Neb., was killed Wednesday afternoon in a two-car collision two miles southwest of here at a junction of U.S. 75 and Mynard Road.

Leonard was alone in a car which was in collision with one driven by Fred Haymaker, 54, Omaha.

Cass County Sheriff Tom Solomon said Haymaker was crossing U.S. 75 heading west and the Leonard auto was proceeding north on the highway.

Haymaker and his two passengers were taken to an Omaha hospital. Paul Hartingan, 34, Omaha, suffered face and head lacerations and Raleigh Yager, 40, Council Bluffs, Iowa, was suffering leg injuries and lacerations.

Solomon said Haymaker suffered undetermined injuries.

Leonard's death boosted the state's traffic fatality toll for the year to 15, compared with 17 at this time a year ago.

Mothers March Earns $16,300

The Mothers March in Lancaster County resulted in collection of $16,300, Mrs. Thomas Yates reported Wednesday.

The traditional event, which took place Tuesday evening, ended the 1961 National Foundation campaign.

Co-chairman of the drive with Mrs. Yates was Mrs. Robert Wagner. Members of the planning committee were Mrs. Vincent Dreeszen, Mrs. Dale Marshall and Mrs. Herbert Hopkins.

First Lady Launches Heart Fund Drive

Washington (AP) — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy ushered two 6-year-old blonde girls — the Heart Fund twins — into the White House spotlight Wednesday to launch a month-long fund raising campaign of the American Heart Association.

It was the new First Lady's first venture in promoting such a drive.

With a smile, she told reporters and cameramen:

"It's a great pleasure to meet the Heart Fund twins, Debbie and Donna, and to participate in this great heart fund campaign to fight heart diseases."

Mrs. Kennedy posed with the twins, children of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Horst of Elkins Park, Pa., in the diplomatic reception room at the White House.

She added a new touch of her own by giving the blue-eyed little girls — survivors of identical heart operations at the Germantown, Pa., hospital—tiny gold hearts "with your name and mine on it—for your charm bracelets."

The tiny charms carried the first name of each twin, the date, and the First Lady's initials "J. B. K."

Mrs. Kennedy, posing with the children, wore a pale shrimp-colored wool suit in contrast to the twins' pale blue organdy dresses, decorated with red hearts and a white ribbon with the red letters "Heart Fund."

The twins, accompanied by their mother, left with Mrs. Kennedy two heart-shaped nosegays of white and red rose buds and two dolls, dressed to resemble the girls, for 3-year-old Caroline, daughter of the White House family.

Asked to identify which twin was which, Mrs. Kennedy smiled, lifted a lock of the blonde hair of the girl on her left, and explained "Debbie has her hair cut — she cut her own hair."

Mrs. Kennedy had little to say on her own at the brief session held mainly for photographers.

When the cameramen asked if they could come a little closer from their lineup about 6 feet away, Mrs. Kennedy nodded obligingly.

But there was a startled look on her face when the mass of some dozen photographers, surged to within two feet as she sat on a pale yellow couch beneath a portrait of Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt.

Present at the ceremony which annually gives an official White House boost to the February heart campaign, were Dr. Oglesby Paul of Chicago, president of the American Heart Association, and Donald C. Power of New York City, national chairman of the 1961 Heart Fund campaign.

Traffic Charge Faces Control Bd. Member

Gering (AP) — A traffic case against Mrs. Ethel Kirwin of Scottsbluff, member of the State Board of Control, which has been pending since Nov. 5, is expected to be completed by the end of the week, County Attorney Donald Wood said Wednesday.

Safety Patrolman Melvin Pierce ticketed Mrs. Kirwin for traveling 68 miles per hour at night while passing through a radar check being conducted by the patrol, Nov. 5.

Pierce filed a complaint before Justice of the Peace Robert W. Patterson in Scottsbluff, and the record showed that on Jan. 3 the charge was dismissed on motion of attorney W. H. Kirwin, Mrs. Kirwin's husband, then county attorney.

On Jan. 11 the charge was refiled and the justice's journal showed that Kirwin joined his successor, Wood, in asking reinstatement of the charge.

Wood said Kirwin indicated subsequently that Mrs. Kirwin wished to enter a plea of no contest to the charge. He said the justice advised that Mrs. Kirwin would have to sign a waiver or be present for the hearing.

Wood added that he expected Mrs. Kirwin would be in Scottsbluff to take care of the matter this week.

Rebs Plan To 'Retain' Ship Hands

Recife, Brazil (UPI) — A Portuguese rebel spokesman Wednesday hinted the 350-member crew of the liner Santa Maria would be kept aboard "one way or another" by the heavily-armed hijackers and impressed into rebel service.

There were fears for the safety of the women crewmembers.

If rebel leader Henrique Galvao succeeded in keeping the crew aboard the 20,906-ton liner, it might mean that he planned to sail the ship farther as a belligerent vessel against he government of Portugal.

Not Enough

Although a number of his 70-man band of rebels aboard the liner were said to be experienced seamen, rebel spokesman Humberto Delgado said the rebels could not man the vessel themselves.

Delgado told newsmen gathered in the bar of the hotel San Domingo in Recife he was sure Brazil's new President Janio Quadros would let Galvao keep possession of the ship.

Asked if the rebels would use force to keep the Portuguese crew aboard, Delgado said:

Will Remain

"The crew will remain one way or another, but I cannot say by what means."

Persons who boarded the Santa Maria with U.S. Rear Adm. Allen E. Smith reported women crewmembers were afraid the rebels would assault them after the passengers had been put ashore.

Portugal, through the Archbishop of Lisbon, Manuel Cardinal Golsalves Cerejeira, asked President Kennedy in Washington for assurances the crew would not be held captive.

Protection

The U.S. Navy has said its main objective in trailing the liner was to protect the 620 passengers, particulary the 42 Americans aboard.

Delgado described the passengers aboard the liner as "unfortunate victims of war," meaning his private war with the Lisbon government of Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar.

He also called the crewman who was killed and the ship's officer who was wounded in the Jan. 22 seizure "victims of war."

Ivy B. Priest May Talk At Founders Day

Ivy Baker Priest, former treasurer of the United States, is expected to be named as ladies luncheon speaker for the annual Republican Founders Day celebration next month.

A committee is to meet in Omaha Friday to select speakers for the event.

Founders Day will be held in Omaha March 19-20.

Mrs. Priest was named treasurer in 1953 by President Eisenhower. She served until the inauguration of President Kennedy.

A native of Utah, she was formerly Republican national committeewoman for her state.

Raymond E. McGratt of Omaha is senior president of 1961 Founders Day. Chester Paxton of Thedford is state ticket chairman.

Polaris Symbol Of Our Determination—JFK

Washington (UPI) — President Kennedy Wednesday described the nation's newest Polaris submarine as a symbol of "our determination to strengthen our military tools."

He so referred to the submarine, Sam Houston, in a statement to be read at the launching of the craft Thursday morning at Newport News, Va.

Kennedy wrote Secretary of the Navy John B. Connally Jr., that he regretted that he could not attend the ceremony but sent a statement and a plaque bearing a quotation from Houston, to be mounted in the submarine.

In his statement, the President said the ceremony "signals our determination to strengthen our military tools — to demonstrate to the world that our sea power, as are all elements of our national power, is a power for peace — a deterrent to any who would violate this eternal objective of God and man."

He said the Polaris submarine was appropriately named because Houston "combined the moral courage to defend principle and the physical courage to defy danger."

The Texan was one of the Americans who were featured in Kennedy's Pulitzer Prize book, "Profiles in Courage" several years ago.

The President described Houston as a man of contradictions, which he said were exemplified by the role of the missile-firing Polaris submarine.

"It is at once a devastating instrument of incredible destructive power, but at the same time it is conceived with but one purpose — to preserve the peace," he said.

The plaque Kennedy presented was inscribed with a remark attributed to Houston when that Texas hero left the U.S. Senate. Houston said he wanted no prouder epitaph to mark his tomb than one saying, "he loved his country; he was a patriot; he was devoted to the union."

Car, Train Crash, But No One Injured

No one was injured and damage was minor in a collision between a car and a Burlington Railroad switch engine Wednesday night. The collision occurred at 5th and A.

Police reported the westbound car was driven by Leroy H. Meints, 17, of 1522 S. 3rd. The engineer was Clyde W. Curd of 3445 O.

MACMILLAN MAY PAY JFK A VISIT SOON

London (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan Wednesday night was reported almost certain to fly to Washington next month for talks with President Kennedy on a concerted Western policy for banning nuclear tests.

British official sources said no date has been set but that Macmillan probably will go in the latter half of March.

Diplomatic circles in London have been buzzing with rumors that Macmillan might advance the date of his Washington visit in order to see Kennedy before Soviet Premier Khrushchev has a chance to edge in ahead.

Informed observers believe Khrushchev may try for an early meeting with Kennedy by showing up in New York when the United Nations General Assembly session reopens March 7.

In Washington President Kennedy declined to say whether Macmillan will visit him in the next few weeks.

Quake Rocks Japs

Tokyo (AP) — A strong earthquake hit Nagaoka City, 129 miles north of Tokyo, killing a farmer in the collapse of his house and injuring 6 others. Ten houses were reported damaged. The quake was not felt in Tokyo.

Turns Key . . . All Is Quiet; FBI Gets Wheels Rolling

By Eric Umland

Hayne A. Thompson, special agent of the FBI from Omaha, told police Wednesday that an Omaha man stepped into his car not too long ago, turned the ignition key, and — nothing happened.

When the man raised the hood, he noticed his engine was gone. Only a few wires dangled from the firewall.

Those wires were the only clue police had, yet it was not too long before they were holding the culprit — wire-cutter and all.

How was it done? Agent Thompson explained how the FBI laboratory in Omaha works and told a few of the jobs it does in his speech "Scientific Aids in Law Enforcement" to the 16th annual police training school.

In the case of the missing car engine, Thompson said, an engine of the same make and year was found in a junk yard. Police marked samples of wires from the engine and also samples of the wires left in the car. These were sent to the FBI laboratory, along with a suspect's pair of wire-cutters.

The FBI identified and matched the wires and were also able to testify that the suspect's wire-cutters had done the clipping.

"Some of the things they (the laboratory's machines) can do are absolutely astounding," Thompson said.

He told police that lab technicians can match pieces of broken glass; they can tell if a window was broken from the outside or from the inside; and they have a machine that can differentiate between 7,000 color shades.

Thompson cited many cases where the laboratory had helped lawmen get their man, and he also told of a few where the suspect had been proven innocent because of laboratory work.

Jury Decides On Death For Busch

Los Angeles (AP) — A jury Wednesday decided strangler Henry Adolph Busch must die in the gas chamber.

The same jury previously convicted him of killing his aunt, Mrs. Margaret Briggs, 53; Mrs. Elmyra M. Miller, 74, and Mrs. Shirley Payne, 72.

He will be formally sentenced next Monday.

PEASANTS' SMOULDERING RESENTMENT CHALLENGING BRAZIL

By William L. Ryan

Recife, Brazil (AP) — Here in this northeast corner of the Americas, misery and smouldering resentment are challenging Brazil's government and threatening the solidarity of hemispheric unity against Communist encroachments.

There are millions of hungry peasants in northeast Brazil. A fiery admirer of Fidel Castro has risen among them. He warns Janio Quadros, who took office Tuesday as Brazil's president, that time is running out. He warns that the demands he makes on behalf of the peasants must be met or they will resort to revolutionary action.

And on the soil of this cruelly depressed area, revolutionary action under Francisco Juliao already has had a few trial runs.

Favors Fidel

Juliao, 45, is often called the Communist leader in Brazil's northeast. He denies being a Communist. But as a politician and demagogue he takes the Communist line and expresses his admiration for what Fidel Castro has done in Cuba.

Here in the state of Pernambuco, Juliao's threat is regarded so seriously that the state government is taking hasty measures to counteract it. This simply adds to the rapidly growing strength of Juliao, whose followers choose to believe it is he who forces the moves.

Security forces move with extreme care, wary of making a martyr of Juliao and possibly provoking uncontrollable violence.

Socialist

Juliao, slightly built, bushy-haired son of a wealthy land-owning family, is a socialist party member of the Pernambuco state legislature. He has been building his organization carefully for 6 years. Thus it antedates Castroism, but there is no question the movement has been stipulated by the Cuban revolution.

Juliao moved in on the weak and ineffective Ligas Componeses (farmers' leagues) and organized them for action. About a year ago he was ready for a trial run —Ligas invasion of a privately owned farm. The state, powerless to do anything else, subsequently bought the farm with the intention of trying orderly allotment of land. But there were too many peasants for it, and the state bought two other farms nearby to take care of the excess.

Juliao convinced his followers his pressure had forced the state's hand. At any rate, the illiterate peasants saw results.

Threaten Order

The Ligas grew in strength and numbers, spreading to other states. In some, like Maranhao to the northwest of Pernambuco, the Juliao movement was regarded as an imminent threat to the existing order.

Officials in Recife say Juliao had no intention of letting any credit reflect on the state government, and was intent on keeping the situation in a state of confusion. Early this month he massed about 400 barefoot, poverty-stricken peasants — men, women and children — with the aid of a few left-wing, extremist Castro and Communist admirers from Recife's university. He armed the peasants with ancient rifles and sugar-cane knives and marched them to two farms where the state was preparing to receive an orderly influx of families.

This time the action challenged the state itself. Security forces moved in, but carefully. Not a peasant was hurt, and one by one the police sent them back to their homes.

Had Impact

But Juliao's pressure had a decided impact, both in the country and in the misery-laden slums of Recife, half of whose 800,000 people live at bare subsistence level. The city's left-wing mayor, was building a formidable political machine with the apparent intention of running for governor in 1962. Mayor Miguel Arraes' "movement of popular culture" has been so cleverly organized that he has obliged people of all political complexions — even including church dignitaries — to participate in its varied activities in the name of charity and public welfare.

Brazil's peasants always have been poor, and an almost feudal system of land ownership by absentee owners has kept them that way. Today, however, the situation is aggravated by conditions of crisis or near crisis in much of the nation's agriculture, from north to south.

The northeast undergoes a major drought at least once every 7 years and many lesser droughts in between.

Short Year

Peasants can work over a few months a year in the dry and semi-dry areas, where the land, in the best of conditions, already is harsh and ungenerous. For 8 months they live a hand-to-mouth existence, undernourished, under-clothed and housed in incredible conditions of disease-bearing filth. Some peasants eke out their existence by migrating to the sugar-cane areas for work during the harvesting season.

Governor Cid Sampaio of the state of Pernambuco told me: "These people are becoming conscious of the idea that they must rise to their own defense. They are banding together to defend themselves.

"If the problems of the peasants are not solved soon, if poverty makes their situation unbearable, they will reach the point of despair."

Careless

Sampaio, himself a landowner and industrialist, says the area's woes are a heritage of 30 years of careless federal government.

"The people living in this region have nothing to lose," he says. "They have no land, no homes, little food, little clothing. They make up a mass easily exploited. Obviously they are being used for political purposes."

He doesn't blame the peasants. He says they are just fighting for a better life. He believes he will be able to accomplish a great deal to remedy the situation in a 5-year program of land reform and industrialization.

But 5 years is a long time in Latin America's new era of popular revolution.

Bowles Delays Meet With Red

Washington (UPI) — The United States postponed at the last minute Wednesday a scheduled meeting between Soviet Ambassador Mikhail A. Menshikov and Undersecretary of State Chester Bowles.

Menshikov had asked for the meeting, saying it was to be a courtesy call. It was the first time he had made such a request since the Kennedy administration came in office.

Bowles' office said the reason for the postponement was "the press of other business." Menshikov probably will see Bowles Thursday.

Ceresco Shows Strong Pulse

By Gene Budig

Ceresco — This is an old town overflowing with fresh, new ideas.

Despite its 80 years, Ceresco thrives on vigorous forward motion.

"We're on the march," declares Mayor Carl Mostrom, pointing to the latest census count.

The 5-7, 150-pound bank executive said:

"In the last 5 years, our population has increased nearly a fourth and it's still climbing at a steady rate.

"Today our population exceeds 450 persons."

This is 100 noses better than the count 5 years ago.

But, Mostrom added: "Like the State of Nebraska, we lose many of our most promising youngsters to other interests."

Born and reared in Ceresco, Mostrom has kept a close check on the town's pulse for some 58 years. And, he says the pulse is stronger than ever.

Mostrom said that this is no longer just a community for retiring farmers.

"I would say that 50% of our new residents are younger persons, probably in their 40s," he noted.

This was not the case 10 years ago, he claimed.

A majority of the new residents came here because of the missile age. Quite a few of the missile site workers at Agnew and Mead break bread at Ceresco.

And what's more, the mayor said that "they (the missile site employes) like the community and its facilities."

Good School System

Residents boast the school system as a major selling point, adding that $42,000 worth of improvements are forthcoming this spring. Ceresco has grades one through 12.

The town offers public park and indoor auditorium facilities, plus extremely active Lions club, Commerical club and Parent-Teachers Association organizations.

(Besides, Lincoln is just down the road about 15 miles, one resident said.)

Three churches care for the community's religious needs. Ceresco has its own water and sewer systems.

The likeable little mayor sees a bright future for his hometown and its youngsters.

So, he's adding a partner —his son, Jon who is graduating from Nebraska Wesleyan this month.

Echo I Visible Both Day, Night

Washington (AP)—The satellite Echo I may be visible in the Lincoln area 7 times between Wednesday and Sunday, the National Aeronautics and Space Agency reported.

The hours when the satellite will be visible, its direction from the city, elevation and direction of movement during the period include (all times central standard):

Feb. 2, 4:39 a.m., north, 85 degrees, SE.

Feb. 3, 4:02 a.m., north, 78 degrees, SE; 6:09 a.m., south, 33 degrees, SE; 9:04 p.m., south, 24 degrees, NE.

Feb. 4, 5:32 a.m., south, 46 degrees, SE; 8:26 p.m., south, 15 degrees, NE.

Feb. 5, 4:55 a.m., south, 59 degrees, SE.

Chemical Plant Workers Strike

Omaha (AP) — A work stoppage occurred at the La Platte Plant of Allied Chemical Corporation early Wednesday after the breakdown of negotiations between the management and the Omaha Metal Trades Council.

F. L. Van Houten, manager, said the work stoppage involves 275 hourly employes. Unresolved issues are wages, welfare benefits, shift differential premiums and the expiration date of a new contract.

Van Houten said supervisory personnel will operate the plant during the strike.

State Needs $2,493,452 For Airports

Washington (AP) — During the next 4 years, Nebraska will need $2,493,452 to make expansion and improvement of public airports and to build new ones.

The estimate is included in a survey by 3 aviation groups of the nation's 3,500 publicly owned airports.

The groups—the Airport Operators Council, the American Assn. of Airport Executives and the National Assn. of State Aviation Officials—said more than $134 million in federal funds will be needed annually during the next 4 years to augment the $588,065,000 which state and local public agencies expect to raise for airport construction.

The 3 organizations said they will present their findings to the Kennedy administration and to the new Congress.

Brunswick Student Places In Judging

Mylon Filkins of Brunswick, a University of Nebraska student, was 4th-high individual this week in beef judging and 3rd-high in sheep judging at the Southwestern Livestock Exposition at Fort Worth, Tex., the school reported Wednesday.

Norfolk Native Is Sub Commander

Norfolk — Cmdr. John Wise of the U.S. Navy, formerly of Norfolk, is commander of the new 7,000 ton Polaris submarine Sam Houston to be commissioned Thursday at Newport News, Va.

A graduate of Norfolk High School and the U.S. Naval Academy, Commander Wise has been stationed at the Pentagon for the last two years.

His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Wise of Norfolk. His brother, Eldon, lives at Casper, Wyo.

Labor Group Airs Veterans Jobless Pay

A bill to allow veterans 65 and over with non-service connected disabilities to draw state unemployment compensation was discussed Wednesday at a hearing of the Legislature's committee on labor.

The bill, LB161, was introduced by Sens. Joe Vosoba of Wilber, Richard Marvel of Hastings, and H. K. Diers of Gresham.

John Sidner, attorney for the Nebraska State Division of Employment Security, said the bill was recommended by the state's advisory council on employment, which is composed of two representatives of labor, two of management, and two of the general public.

Roger Gibson of Lincoln, veterans employment representative for the U.S. Department of Labor, said he was authorized by all 3 veterans organizations in the state to speak in favor of the bill.

The committee decided to hold the bill for further study.

The committee took action on another bill, LB165, introduced by Sen. Vosoba and Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City.

LB165 would give to voluntary firemen of rural or suburban fire protection districts, and to employes of the state civil defense agency, the same workmen's compensation rights as voluntary firemen of cities now have.

There was no opposition, and the committee advanced the bill 6-0.

Rites Thursday For Dr. Murray

Omaha — Services for Dr. Floyd J. Murray, 68, a former member of the University of Omaha's Board of Regents, will be at 10 a.m. Thursday at Benson Presbyterian Church.

A native of Pender, he was graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1918. He was an instructor in surgery at the NU College of Medicine

Surviving are his wife, Helen; son, Dr. Robert G. Murray of Omaha; mother, Mrs. Nettie Stainbrook of Fairbury; two sisters and 5 grandchildren.

Hereford Show Opens At G.I.

Grand Island (AP)—The 51st anniversary Old Reliable Hereford Assn. Show opened here Wednesday.

Judging will continue through Thursday and consigned cattle will be sold Friday.

Governor Will Address Editors

Norfolk — Gov. Frank Morrison will be the main speaker when the Northeast Nebraska District holds a press meeting at Norfolk Saturday, Feb. 18. He will address the evening banquet.

Roosevelt's Effort Result Still Unknown

Sheldon, Ia. (AP) — Before the end of this week the results of Elliott Roosevelt's effort to reorganize Northern Biochemical Corp. may be known, his aides said Wednesday.

Roosevelt and associates have been seeking to interest new capital in Northern Biochemical to take over its assets, manufacturing and distributing facilities. They expect to know the outcome of their activities possibly as early as Friday.

The firm was involved in financial difficulties connected with the closing of Sheldon National Bank last month. Roosevelt, employed as a Northern Biochemical financial consultant a few weeks before the bank development, has been on the scene here since the bank closed.

Meanwhile, reports continue of plans for the organization of a new Sheldon bank.

Among those reportedly interested are Keith Merrill, Sheldon attorney; J. L. Campbell Jr., vice president of the Humboldt Trust & Savings Bank; Keith Campbell of Des Moines, presently employed in the Iowa-Des Moines National Bank, and Robert Dixon of Rolfe, officer of the Rolfe State Bank.

This group and interested Sheldon men have been investigating prospects of a new state bank with about $200,000 in resources.

Morrison Will Not Veto Either Sales, Income Tax

Sidney (AP) — Gov. Frank Morrison says he will not veto either a sales tax or a sales-income tax bill should they pass the Legislature.

The governor made the statements in an interview published Wednesday in the Sidney Telegraph.

Sen. George Gerdes of Alliance has introduced a 2% sales tax measure and Sen. Hans Jensen of Aurora a sales-income tax bill.

Of the Gerdes proposal Morrison said:

"I generally have been opposed to a general sales tax. The experience of other states shows that a replacement tax as a matter of practice is impossible. All you do is increase your tax burden."

But, he added, "if the Legislature decides to pass a sales tax, I, of course, will sign it."

Of the Jensen bill Morrison declared:

"My personal opinion is that it will harm the industrial development of the state."

"However," the governor added, "I would sign both bills if passed, because the veto power of the governor should be used sparingly and used to counteract ill-considered legislation.

"If a bill has been amply debated in the Legislature, the governor is superimposing his will on that of the Senate by a veto."

Morrison was in Sidney for a banquet at which he spoke.

Rauscher Accepts Episcopal Post

Omaha (UPI) — The Rev. Russell T. Rauscher of Oklahoma City has accepted election as bishop coadjustor of the Nebraska Episcopal Diocese.

The election is subject to approval of the House of Bishops and the standing committees of all dioceses of the general church.

The Rev. Mr. Rauscher, as bishop coadjustor, will be assistant to Bishop Howard R. Brinker with the right of succession.

Dr. Gomon Will Mark 60th Year As A Minister

Peru—Dr. Charles G. Gomon, retired minister of the Methodist Church who resides in Peru, will observe his 60th anniversary in the ministry at the Peru Methodist Church Sunday.

He and his family will be given special recognition at the morning worship service, when the Rev. Carroll H. Prouty of Lincoln will be the guest minister.

From 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday an informal reception and program will be held in the church parlors in honor of Dr. Gomon.

He served Methodist churches in Giltner, Lincoln, Ravenna, Cozad, Broken Bow, Aurora, Albion and Omaha in addition to serving as district superintendent of the Norfolk district and financial secretary of the Nebraska Claimants Society.

Missile Shot Spurs Stocks

New York (AP) — The successful Minuteman missile shot gave a laboring stock market a shot in the arm and the list moved irregularly higher Wednesday. Trading was fairly active.

A number of companies directly connected with the rocket's manufacture spurted on the news of the launching. The aircraft-missile shares, rocket fuel stocks and electronics ended higher.

Steels responded late in the day to a statement by Roger M. Blough, board chairman of U.S. Steel, that the steel business shows signs of a pickup.

Gains on balance by the utility and rail group helped bolster the industrials which rose modestly at best on an overall basis. Chemicals, drugs, and airlines were among the winners.

Most key stocks produced gains or losses running from fractions to about a point. A few issues made wider moves.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.19 to 649.49.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .6 to a new 1960-'61 high of 235.30, nudging this indicator closer to its historic high of 235.80 made Aug. 3, 1959.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose .12 to 61.90, just a hair's breadth below its all-time top of 61.97 made on Monday.

Of 1,289 issues traded, 643 advanced and 420 declined. New highs for 1960-'61 totaled 112. The single new low was Pittsburgh Steel "A" preferred.

Volume was 4.38 million shares compared with Tuesday's 4.69 million.

Eleven of the 15 most active stocks advanced, two declined, and two were unchanged.

American stock exchange prices moved generally higher on volume of 1.42 million shares compared with Tuesday's 1.47 million.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds showed no major changes.

Bond trading on the New York Stock Exchange dipped below $7 million par value for the first time in 8 sessions and only the 3rd in 15 at $6.76 million. Tuesday's total was $7.80 million.

Losses Common For Livestock

Omaha (AP) — Buyers kept the pressure on Omaha's fat cattle market Wednesday despite lighter receipts

A number of sales were about steady but fresh declines of 25c were not uncommon.

Butcher hog prices dropped 25-50. Lower wholesale pork prices contributed to the decline. Fat lamb trading was slow.

CHICAGO

Chicago (AP) — Butcher hog prices eased 25 to 50 cents a hundredweight Wednesday as demand slackened for a supply of 6,500 head.

The top price of $18.50, paid for about 150 head of 190-230 lb. weights grading mixed 1-2 and 1-3, was off 40 cents from Tuesday's high. Other similar weights and grades moved at $18 and up with the mixed 2-3 and 3 at $17.75-18.25. Heavier weights were $17 and up. Sows topped at $16.50.

Slaughter steers were steady to 25 cents lower on weights up to 1,350 lbs. but up to $1 lower on heavier kinds. Mixed choice and prime grades scaling 900-1,350 lbs. went at $25.50-28.50 with heavier offerings down to $23.75. Good and choice in mixed lots were $24.75-26.50 and the strictly good $23.75-25.25.

Heifers moved at $26.75-27 for mixed choice and prime, $25.25-26.50 for choice and $22.50-25.25 for good and mixed good and choice. Vealers brought $24-29, bulls $18.50-21.

Slaughter lambs grading mixed choice and prime sold up to $18.50 with prices strong to 50 cents higher. Good and choice were $16-17.50.
